Leading Change: Improving Courts' Response to Mental Health and Intellectual and Developmental Disability Needs

GETTING STARTED
	Review these materials with your court administrator.
	Together, discuss the status of your court and community response to those with mental illness (MI) and intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD).
	What is the status of any other prior efforts undertaken in your county?
	Who has been involved in and provided leadership on key efforts in this area?
CONVENE STAKEHOLDERS
	Consider the many stakeholders who could be involved, and identify stakeholders relevant for you jurisdiction. Consult the list of potential stakeholders on the back of this card.
	Plan a first meeting, create an agenda, and invite stakeholders.
	Convene the first meeting of stakeholders.
AT YOUR FIRST MEETING
	Engage your stakeholders; do a lot of active listening.
	Propose "process mapping," also known as "cross-systems mapping," with your stakeholders to map the current MI/IDD landscape in your community. Emphasize the importance of this exercise to (1) understanding relevant systems as they currently exist, (2) identifying areas requiring improvement in community and court responses, and (3) fostering collaboration among stakeholders across disciplines.
	Begin mapping your local processes using the using Sequential Intercept Model (SIM). Examine the existing responses at each intercept point, and document stakeholder responses. Consult the Assessing the Mental Health and IDD Landscape by Intercept card for questions to facilitate discussion. Recognize that the mapping process may require multiple meetings and input by a variety of stakeholders.
	Decide the frequency of meetings necessary to lead change in your community. Note that more frequent meetings may be necessary in the beginning to establish the workgroup, map local processes, identify gaps and barriers, and developing goals and strategies for improving responses.
	Create a communication plan for sustained collaboration among stakeholders.
C	CONTINUE TO ASSESS THE MENTAL HEALTH AND IDD LANDSCAPE
	As you map your local processes using the SIM, identify gaps in community and court processes.
	Consider adapting protocols that have been developed in other counties and states to meet your needs.
	Develop strategies and protocols to address identified gaps.
П	Solicit viewnoints to build a consensus among all stakeholders at each sten
