(A) Cost-sharing exceeds MMF. If the amount of all applicable co-payments, co-insurance, and deductibles for services listed in the monthly account as covered by non-Medicare third-party coverage exceeds the person's MMF, then the LMHA bills the person (or parent) all applicable co-payments, co-insurance, and deductibles.

(B) Cost-sharing does not exceed MMF. (i) If the amount of all applicable co-payments, co-insurance, and deductibles for services listed in the monthly account as covered by non-Medicare third-party coverage does not exceed the person's MMF, then the following amounts are added to equal the total amount applied toward the person's MMF:

(I) the amount of all applicable co-payments, co-insurance, and deductibles; and

(II) the monthly account amount for services not covered by third-party coverage. (ii) If the total amount applied toward the person's MMF as described in paragraph (3)(B) of this subsection:

(I) exceeds the person's MMF, then the amount is reduced to equal the MMF and the LMHA bills person (or parent) the MMF; or

(II) is less than the person's MMF, then the LMHA bills the person (or parent) the total amount applied toward the MMF.

(C) Annual cost-sharing limit. If the person (or parent) has reached his/her annual cost-sharing limit (i.e., maximum out-of-pocket expense) as verified by the non-Medicare third-party coverage, then the LMHA will not bill the person (or parent) any co-payments, co-insurance, or deductibles, as applicable to the annual cost-sharing limit, for services covered by the non-Medicare third-party coverage for the remainder of the policy-year.

(4) Social Security work incentive provisions.

(A) If the person identified a payment amount for specific services in his/her approved plan utilizing Social Security work incentive provisions (i.e., Plan to Achieve Self-Sufficiency; Impairment Related Work Expense), then the LMHA bills the person the monthly account amount for the specific services up to the identified payment amount. If the monthly account amount for the specific services is greater than the identified payment amount, then the remaining balance is applied toward the person's MMF.

(B) The following amounts are added to equal the total amount applied toward the person's MMF: (i) any remaining balance as described in paragraph (4)(A) of this subsection; and (ii) the monthly account amount for services not covered by third-party coverage.

(C) If the total amount applied toward the person's MMF as described in paragraph (4)(B) of this subsection: (i) exceeds the person's MMF, then the amount is reduced to equal the MMF and the LMHA bills person (or parent) the MMF; or (ii) is less than the person's MMF, then the LMHA bills the person (or parent) the total amount applied toward the MMF.

(1) The LMHA will send to persons (and parents) who have been determined as having the ability to pay monthly or quarterly statements that include:

(A) an itemized list, at least by date and by type, of all services provided during the period;

(B) the standard charge for each service;

(C) the total charge for the period;

(D) the amount paid (or to be paid) by each funding source; and

(E) the amount to be paid by the person (or parent).

(2) Unless requested otherwise, the LMHA does not send statements to persons (or parents) who have an ability to pay if they maintain a zero balance (i.e., the person (or parent) does not currently owe any money).

(3) Unless requested otherwise, the LMHA does not send statements to persons (or parents) who have an inability to pay.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 412.108 adopted to be effective September 1, 2002, 27 TexReg 2041; amended to be effective September 15, 2005, 30 TexReg 5806; amended to be effective February 19, 2017, 42 TexReg 561

§ 412.109. Payments, Collections, and Non-payment

(a) Payment and collection.

(1) Persons (and parents) are responsible for promptly paying all charges owed to the LMHA.

(2) The LMHAs are responsible for making reasonable efforts to collect payments from all available funding sources before accessing the department's funds to pay for persons' services.

(b) Financial hardship. If a person (or parent) claims financial hardship as provided in this subsection, then the LMHA must determine whether a significant financial change (as defined) has occurred. If a significant financial change has occurred, then the LMHA must immediately update the person's (or parent's) financial assessment as required in § 412.106(a) of this title (relating to Determination of Ability to Pay).

(1) If a person (or parent) claims, and provides documentation, that financial hardship prevents prompt payment of all charges owed, then the LMHA may arrange for the person (or parent) to pay a lesser amount each month.

(2) If a person (or parent) claims that financial hardship prevents prompt payment of all charges owed, then the LMHA must arrange for the person (or parent) to pay a lesser amount each month only if the person has third-party coverage that is neither income-based public insurance nor Medicare and the person's cost-sharing exceeds his/her MMF. The lesser amount:

(A) will be no more than the person's MMF, if the person's MMF is greater than zero; or

(B) will be no more than $ 5.00, if the person's MMF is zero.

(3) Although the person (or parent) may pay a lesser amount each month because a portion of the charges will be deferred, the person (or parent) is still responsible for paying all charges owed.

(c) Discontinuing charges to persons (or parents) for services. If the LMHA makes a decision, based on a clinical determination that is documented and includes input from the person's team, that being charged for services and receiving statements will result in a reduction in the functioning level of the person or the person's (or parent's) refusal or rejection of the needed services, then the LMHA will discontinue charging the person (or parent) for services and stop sending statements. The clinical determination must be reassessed at least every three months. If the LMHA decides to discontinue charging the person (or parent) for services, then the LMHA must develop and implement a plan to address the issues related to the person's functioning level or the person's (or parent's) refusal or rejection of the needed services.

(d) Involuntary reduction or termination of services for non-payment by person (or parent).

(1) The LMHA will address the past-due account of a person (or parent) who is not making payments to ensure reasonable efforts to secure payments are initiated with the person (or parent). For example, if the LMHA determines that non-payment is related to financial hardship, then the LMHA may assist the person (or parent) in making arrangements to pay a lesser amount each month in accordance with subsection (a)(2) of this section or if the LMHA makes a decision, based on a clinical determination that is documented and includes input from the person's team, that non-payment is related to the person's mental illness, then the person's treatment/service plan may be modified to address the non-payment.

(2) If the LMHA makes a decision, based on a clinical determination that is documented and includes input from the person's team, that non-payment is not related to the person's mental illness and, despite reasonable efforts to secure payment, the person (or parent) does not pay, then the LMHA may propose to involuntarily reduce or terminate the person's services. The LMHA may not propose to involuntarily reduce or terminate the person's services if the proposed action would cause the person's mental or physical health to be at imminent risk of serious deterioration or the LMHA is identified as being responsible for providing court-ordered outpatient services to the person.

(3) If the LMHA proposes to involuntarily reduce or terminate the person's services, then the LMHA must:

(A) maintain clinical documentation that the proposed action would not cause the person's mental or physical health to be at imminent risk of serious deterioration;

(B) provide written notification to the person (or parent) in accordance with subsection (e)(1) of this section and comply with subsection (e)(2) - (3) as initiated by the person (or parent).

(e) Notification, Appeal, and Review.

(1) Notification. The LMHA will notify the person (or parent) in writing of the proposed action (i.e., to involuntarily reduce or terminate the person's services or refer the person to his/her third-party coverage) and the right to appeal the proposed action in accordance with § 401.464 of this title (relating to Notification and Appeals Process). The notification will describe the time frames and process for requesting an appeal and include a copy of this subchapter. If the person (or parent) requests an appeal within the prescribed time frame, then the LMHA may not take the proposed action while the appeal is pending. The LMHA may take the proposed action if the person (or parent) does not request a review within the prescribed time frame.

(2) Appeal and appeal decision. The appeal is conducted in accordance with § 401.464(g) of this title. The local mental health authority will notify the person (or parent) in writing of the appeal decision in accordance with § 401.464(h) of this title and the right to have the appeal decision reviewed by the department's Mental Health and Substance Abuse Client's Rights Office (1-800-252-8154) if the person (or parent) is dissatisfied with the appeal decision. The notification must describe the time frames and process for requesting a review.

(3) Review of appeal decision. If the person (or parent) is dissatisfied with the appeal decision, then the person (or parent) may request a review by the department's Mental Health and Substance Abuse Client's Rights Office. A request for review must be submitted to the department's Mental Health and Substance Abuse Client's Rights Office, Mail Code 2019, P.O. Box 12668, Austin, TX 78751, within 10 working days of receipt of the appeal decision. If the person (or parent) requests a review within the prescribed time frame, then the LMHA may not take the proposed action while the review is pending. The LMHA may take the proposed action if the person (or parent) does not request a review within the prescribed time frame and the appeal decision upholds the decision to take the proposed action.

(A) A person (or parent) who requests a review may choose to have the reviewer conduct the review:

(i) by telephone conference with the person (or parent) and a representative from the LMHA and make a decision based upon verbal testimony made during the telephone conference and any documents provided by the person (or parent) and the LMHA; or

(ii) by making a decision based solely upon documents provided by the person (or parent) and the LMHA without the presence of any of the parties involved.

(B) The review:

(i) will be conducted no sooner than 10 working days and no later than 30 working days of receipt of the request for review unless an extension is granted by the director of the department's Mental Health and Substance Abuse Client's Rights Office;

(ii) will include an examination of the pertinent information concerning the proposed action and may include consultation with the department's Mental Health and Substance Abuse Client's Rights Office clinical staff and staff who are responsible for the policy contained in this subchapter;

(iii) will result in a final decision which will uphold, reverse, or modify the original decision to take the proposed action; and

(iv) is the final step of the appeal process for involuntarily reducing or terminating the person's services for non-payment and for referring the person to his/her third-party coverage.

(C) Within five working days after the review, the reviewer will send written notification of the final decision to the person (or parent) and the LMHA.

(D) The LMHA will take appropriate action consistent with the final decision.

(f) Prohibition of financial penalties. The LMHA may not impose financial penalties on a person (or parent).

(g) Debt collection. Local authorities must make reasonable efforts to collect debts before an account is referred to a debt collection agency. Local authorities must document their efforts at debt collection.

(1) Local authorities must incorporate into a written agreement or contract for debt collection provisions that state that both parties shall:

(A) maintain the confidentiality of the information and not disclose the identity of the person or any other identifying information; and

(B) not harass, threaten, or intimidate persons and their families.

(2) Local authorities will enforce the provisions contained in paragraph (1) of this subsection.

(2) No research involving human subjects may be conducted unless the risks to human subjects are minimized and are reasonable in relation to the anticipated benefits.

(3) No undue inducement or coercion may be used to influence human subjects to participate in a research study.

(4) Unless scientifically justified, individuals may not be excluded from participating in research on the basis of personal characteristics, such as race, color, ethnicity, national origin, religion, sex, age, disability, sexual orientation, or political affiliation.

(5) Human subject participation in research studies must be equitable with measures taken to ensure the research sample is adequately representative of the population of interest. Within the population of interest subject selection procedures must offer equitable opportunity for access to participation in research and access to potential benefits of participation.

(6) Individuals receiving mental health services under an order of protective custody pursuant to the Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 574, may not be approached about participation in a research study involving an investigational medication or device prior to the entry of an order for temporary or extended mental health services.

(7) Research may not be conducted with human subjects who are involuntarily committed if the research involves:

(A) placebos as the primary medication therapy;

(B) medication or doses of medication as the primary medication therapy which are known to be ineffective for the targeted disorder or condition; or

(C) an investigational medication or device that is proposed to be undertaken when previous research on the medication or device with 100 human subjects or fewer has provided minimal or no documentation of the efficacy and safety of the medication or device for the population with the targeted disorder or condition.

(8) Research may not be conducted at a facility if the protocol:

(A) extends the use of a placebo or washout period unreasonably;

(B) deprives the human subject of reasonable relief; or

(C) extends a human subject's use of placebos as the primary medication therapy after the subject is discharged from the facility.

(9) Unless otherwise provided for in this subchapter, research involving human subjects may not be conducted at a facility unless:

(A) the research has been reviewed and approved by the facility's designated IRB in accordance with § 414.757 of this title (relating to Review and Approval of Proposed Research);

(B) the facility CEO has agreed to have the research conducted at the facility; and

(C) if required, the necessary assurance and certification has been submitted to the appropriate federal agency, (e.g., Health and Human Services, Food and Drug Administration) and the agency has indicated its approval.

(10) Research conducted at a facility may not hinder the facility's ability to accomplish its primary purpose.

(1) A human subject involved in research or his/her LAR is entitled to file a complaint about alleged mistreatment or other concerns relating to the research with the facility's rights officer or with any other applicable complaint mechanism in place.

(2) An individual or his/her LAR is entitled to file a complaint about violations of the Federal Standards for Privacy of Individually Identifiable Health Information (45 CFR Part 160 and Part 164, Subparts a and E) with the facility's privacy coordinator, the TDMHMR Consumer Services and Rights Protection/Ombudsman Office, or the Office for Civil Rights at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, as set forth in the Notice of Privacy Practices.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 414.756 adopted to be effective July 5, 2004, 29 TexReg 6093

§ 414.757. Review and Approval of Proposed Research

(a) Proposed research must be submitted to the facility's designated IRB and contain adequate written information for the IRB to determine whether the requirements described in 45 CFR § 46.111, referenced as Exhibit a in § 414.763 of this title (relating to Exhibits), are satisfied, including the following:

(1) A complete description of how the research protocol will be implemented at the facility or facilities, including:

(A) the process for recruiting, screening, and selecting human subjects;

(B) procedures for obtaining and documenting informed consent;

(C) how many subjects are required at the facility or facilities;

(D) the process for and level of clinical monitoring of human subjects throughout the research period;

(E) procedures for obtaining and documenting authorization to use or disclose protected health information (PHI) or a request for a waiver or alteration of authorization with justification; and

(F) appropriate and sufficient information to enable the facility to provide an accounting of disclosures as required in 45 CFR § 164.528(b), if the proposed research includes a request for a waiver or alteration of authorization to use or disclose PHI or the proposed research involves using or disclosing decedents' protected health information without an authorization.

(2) A thorough justification of the research protocol and proposed analyses, including:

(A) a description of the procedures designed to minimize risks to subjects; and

(B) the scientific rationale for targeting the proposed population(s) as human subjects.

(3) If the proposed research would extend a human subject's use of an investigational medication or device as the primary treatment after the subject is discharged from the facility, then the research proposal must also contain a memorandum of agreement between the principal investigator and the local authority responsible for the subject's continuity of care which states that, before the conclusion of the subject's participation in the research study, the local authority agrees:

(A) to make face-to-face contact with the subject to determine whether the subject will need medication services when the subject's participation in the research study has ended; and

(B) to arrange for the provision of needed medication services for the subject when the subject's participation in the research study has ended.

(b) Each designated IRB shall review all proposed research at the facility in accordance with 45 CFR § 46.109, concerning IRB review of research.

(c) Each designated IRB has the authority to approve, require modifications to, or disapprove any proposed research. Approval of proposed research shall be based on:

(1) consideration of the information described in subsection (a)(1) - (3) of this section;

(2) the IRB's verification that the requirements in 45 CFR § 46.111, concerning criteria for IRB approval of research, §414.754 of this title (relating to General Principles), and §414.758 of this title (relating to Informed Consent) are met; and

(3) the IRB's verification that procedures for obtaining and documenting authorization to use or disclose PHI meet the requirements in 45 CFR § 164.508, unless:

(A) the IRB approves a waiver or alternation of the authorization requirement as permitted in §414.760(b) of this title (relating to Using and Disclosing Protected Health Information in Research); or

(B) the IRB determines and documents that:

(i) the data needed for the research is contained in a limited data set and the researcher will comply with the requirements in 45 CFR § 164.514(e), including the execution of a data use agreement; or

(ii) the data needed for the research is limited to decedents' protected health information and documentation submitted by the researcher meets the requirements in 45 CFR § 164.512(i)(1)(iii).

(d) The designated IRB may take into consideration deliberations and reviews from another IRB that has approved the protocol for a specific research proposal, but the designated IRB is ultimately responsible for approval of the proposed research.

(e) Research review and documentation process.

(1) Facility IRB as the designated IRB. The research review and documentation process for a facility IRB, as described in §414.755(b)(1) and (2) of this title (relating to Designated Institutional Review Board (IRB)), is generally as follows.

(A) The research proposal is reviewed by the facility IRB and, if approved, forwarded to the CEO of the facility where the research is to be conducted.

(B) The facility CEO is informed of the facility IRB's approval or disapproval and recommendations, if any.

(C) If the research proposal is approved by the facility IRB, the facility CEO considers the facility IRB's recommendations, if any, and either approves or disapproves the research proposal for implementation at the facility.

(D) If the research proposal is approved, the ORA is notified in writing of the CEO's and IRB's approval including copies of the IRB's meeting minutes concerning the review of the proposal, the proposal itself, and the CEO's and IRB's documentation of approval.

(2) University IRB as the designated IRB. The research review and documentation process for a facility using a university IRB is generally as follows.

(A) The research proposal is screened by the facility CEO and, if determined appropriate for implementation at the facility, forwarded to the university IRB for review.

(B) The research proposal is reviewed by the university IRB.

(C) The facility CEO is informed of the university IRB's approval or disapproval and recommendations, if any.

(D) If the research proposal is approved by the university IRB, the facility CEO considers the university IRB's recommendations, if any, and either approves or disapproves the research proposal for implementation at the facility.

(E) If the research proposal is approved, the ORA is notified in writing of the CEO's and IRB's approval including copies of the IRB's meeting minutes concerning the review of the proposal, the proposal itself, and the CEO's and IRB's documentation of approval.

(3) Central Office IRB as the designated IRB. The research review and documentation process for a facility using the Central Office IRB is generally as follows.

(A) The research proposal is screened by the facility CEO and, if determined appropriate for implementation at the facility, forwarded to the Central Office IRB.

(B) The research proposal is reviewed by the Central Office IRB.

(C) The facility CEO is informed of the Central Office IRB's approval or disapproval and recommendations, if any.

(D) If the research proposal is approved by the Central Office IRB, the facility CEO considers the Central Office IRB's recommendations, if any, and either approves or disapproves the research proposal for implementation at the facility.

(E) If the research proposal is approved, the ORA is notified in writing of the CEO's and IRB's approval including copies of the IRB's meeting minutes concerning the review of the proposal, the proposal itself, and the CEO's and IRB's documentation of approval.

(4) Central Office IRB as a facility's designated IRB for research studies involving multiple facilities. When a facility's CEO requests that the Central Office IRB act as its designated IRB for a research study involving multiple facilities, pursuant to §414.755(c) of this title, then the research review and documentation process is generally as follows.

(A) The research proposal is reviewed and approved by:

(i) each facility CEO;

(ii) the Central Office IRB; and

(iii) the appropriate Central Office director(s), (i.e., director of state mental health facilities or director of state mental retardation facilities).

(B) If the research proposal is approved by the facility CEOs, the Central Office IRB, and the appropriate Central Office director(s), the ORA is notified in writing of the approval, including copies of the IRB's meeting minutes concerning the review of the proposal, the proposal itself, and documentation of approval of the CEOs and the Central Office IRB.

(f) In addition to approval by the designated IRB and facility CEO, review and approval by the TDMHMR medical director is required for any research proposal involving:

(1) a placebo as the primary medication therapy;

(2) medication or doses of medication as the primary medication therapy which are known to be ineffective for the targeted disorder or condition; or

(3) an investigational medication or device.

(g) The review process for proposed research may require additional steps as necessary, (e.g., in the event a proposal is initially rejected).

(h) The facility CEO or designee is responsible for ensuring that all key researchers are qualified to perform any clinical duties assigned to them and are knowledgeable of TDMHMR's rules governing the care and protection of individuals as described in §414.764(5) of this title (relating to References).

§ 414.758. Informed Consent

Requirements for approval of proposed research.

(1) The procedures for obtaining and documenting informed consent meet the requirements in 45 CFR § 46.116 and § 46.117, referenced as Exhibit a in § 414.763 of this title (relating to Exhibits), and adequately address:

(A) any extension of the subject's length of stay at the facility as a result of participation in the research;

(B) if the research involves an investigational medication or device, the subject's ability to receive the medication or device after the research has concluded;

(C) whether the research involves the use of a placebo and the likelihood of assignment to the placebo condition;

(D) whether the research involves medication or doses of medication which are known to be ineffective for the targeted disorder or condition and the likelihood of assignment to such medication or doses of medication; and

(E) any risk of deterioration in the subject's condition and the potential consequences of such deterioration (e.g., an extension in the length of stay, the use of interventions such as restraint, seclusion, or emergency medications).

(2) For research protocols that present greater than minimal risk, there are procedures to ensure prospective human subjects are adequately assessed for capacity to consent and:

(A) provide for a qualified professional, who is independent of the research study, to assess prospective human subjects for capacity to consent;

(B) describe who will conduct the assessments; and

(C) describe the nature of the assessment and justification if less formal procedures to assess capacity will be used.

(3) If minors are the proposed human subjects, the requirements in 45 CFR § 46.408 (concerning Requirements for Permission by Parents or Guardians and for Assent by Children) have been met.

(4) There are procedures to ensure that:

(A) before obtaining consent, each prospective human subject or the subject's LAR understands the information provided; and

(B) if consent is obtained from the subject's LAR, attempts are made, to the extent possible given the prospective subject's capacity, to obtain the subject's assent to participation.

(5) There are adequate safeguards to minimize the possibility of coercion or undue influence. For example, the possible advantages of the subject's participation in the research may not be so valuable as to impair the subject's ability to weigh the risks of the research against those advantages. Possible advantages within the limited choice environment of a facility may include enhancement of general living conditions, medical care, quality of food, or amenities; opportunity for earnings; or change in commitment status.

(6) There are procedures to ensure that a prospective human subject's objection to enrollment in research or a human subject's objection to continued participation in a research protocol is heeded in all circumstances, regardless of whether the subject or the subject's LAR has given consent. Objection may be conveyed verbally, in writing, behaviorally, or by other indications or means. The procedures may, however, provide for a key researcher, with approval of the LAR (if appropriate) and acting with a level of sensitivity to avoid the possibility or the appearance of coercion, to approach an individual who has previously objected to ascertain whether the individual has changed his/her mind or to approach an individual who has not given consent to ascertain whether the individual wants to enroll in the research protocol.

(7) Because informed consent is an ongoing process, there are procedures to ensure that, throughout the course of the research study, human subjects' comprehension and capacity are assessed and enhanced.

§ 414.759. Research Involving Offenders as Human Subjects

(a) Definition of offender. "Offender" means any individual involuntarily confined or detained in a penal institution, including:

(1) individuals sentenced to a penal institution under criminal or civil statute;

(2) individuals detained in other facilities by virtue of statutes or commitment procedures that provide alternatives to criminal prosecution or incarceration in a penal institution; and

(3) individuals detained pending arraignment, trial, or sentencing.

(b) IRB membership. In addition to the requirements in § 414.755(d) of this title (relating to Designated Institutional Review Board (IRB)), membership of an IRB that will review proposed research involving offenders or alleged offenders as human subjects must include at least one member who is an offender advocate or representative with appropriate background and experience to serve in that capacity.

(c) Permitted research. Research at a facility may involve offenders or alleged offenders as human subjects only if, in the judgment of the designated IRB, the proposed research involves solely the following:

(1) study of the possible causes, effects, and processes of criminal commitment or criminal confinement, or of criminal behavior, provided that the study presents no more than minimal risk and no more than inconvenience to the subjects;

(2) study of facilities as institutional structures or of individuals criminally committed to a facility, provided that the study presents no more than minimal risk and no more than inconvenience to the subjects;

(3) research on conditions particularly affecting individuals criminally committed to a facility as a class; or

(4) research on treatments or practices, both innovative and accepted, which have the intent and reasonable probability of improving the health or well-being of the subjects.

(1) conforms with the requirements of 45 CFR § 164.508; and

(2) if the research includes treatment, includes a statement that the subject's right to access his or her PHI created or obtained during the course of research may be temporarily suspended for as long as the research is in progress, and will be reinstated upon completion of the research.

(b) During the review of proposed research, the designated IRB has the authority to approve a waiver or alteration of the authorization requirement in accordance with 45 CFR § 164.512(i).

(c) The designated IRB has the authority to approve the use or disclosure of PHI for purposes preparatory to research if the IRB obtains from the researcher adequate representations as required by 45 CFR § 164.512(i)(1)(ii).

(d) For a research study approved prior to April 14, 2003, the PHI of a human subject participating in the study may be used or disclosed for the research study if one of the following was obtained prior to April 14, 2003:

(1) an authorization or other express legal permission from the subject or the subject's LAR to use or disclose PHI for the research study;

(2) informed consent of the subject to participate in the research study or informed consent from the subject's LAR for the subject to participate in the research study; or

(3) a waiver of informed consent by the designated IRB for the research study.

§ 414.761. Investigation of Allegations of Misconduct in Science

(a) All research undertaken at facilities shall be conducted with a fundamental commitment to high ethical standards regarding the conduct of scientific research.

(b) Reports of alleged misconduct in science are made to the ORA, who shall ensure that:

(2) the investigating entity submits to the ORA information documenting the disposition of each allegation; and

(3) the following are notified of confirmed incidents of misconduct in science:

(A) the IRB that approved the research protocol; and

(B) the agency funding the research.

(a) The purpose of this subchapter is to establish standards for prescribing psychoactive medication to patients served by the state mental health and mental retardation system in Texas.

(b) This subchapter is not a clinical guide to prescribing psychoactive medication and is not the only source of information concerning related issues of appropriate practice.

(c) Accepted guidelines, as defined in § 415.3 of this title (relating to Definitions) supplement the use of this subchapter.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.1 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

§ 415.2. Application

(a) The provisions of this subchapter apply to the employees and contractors of:

- (1) the facilities of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation (TDMHMR); and
- (2) TDMHMR local authorities.

(b) The provisions of this subchapter may not apply to prescribing practice in research projects that have been approved in accordance with TDMHMR's policies and procedures concerning the review and approval of research involving human subjects.

The following words and terms, when used in this subchapter, have the following meanings:

(1) Accepted guidelines—The Texas Implementation of Medication Algorithms (TIMA) or an alternative guideline formally approved in writing by the TDMHMR medical director. In cases in which none are formally approved, current professionally recognized clinical guidelines or accepted standards of care are considered the accepted guidelines.

(2) Child psychiatrist—A physician who is certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and holds a subspecialty certificate in child and adolescent psychiatry, or who is board eligible, i.e., has an active approved application on file in the board office, or who is currently in training in an approved residency and is supervised by a board eligible or board-certified child and adolescent psychiatrist.

(3) DSM—The current edition of The Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders published by the American Psychiatric Press.

(4) Legally authorized representative (LAR)—A person authorized by law to act on behalf of an individual with regard to a matter described in this subchapter, who may be a parent, guardian, or managing conservator of a minor, or the guardian of an adult.

(6) Medication error—Any preventable event that may cause or lead to inappropriate medication use or patient harm while the medication is in the control of the health care professional.

(7) Physician—A doctor of medicine or osteopathy who holds a current license or institutional permit to practice medicine in Texas.

(9) Polypharmacy—Concurrent use of more than one psychoactive medication having identical or very similar mechanisms of action.

(10) Prescribing professional—A physician or other health care professional who, as authorized by statute, may prescribe under the supervision of a physician.

(11) PRN—As needed (pro re nata).

(12) Psychiatric emergency—A situation in which, in the opinion of the physician, it is immediately necessary to administer medication to a patient to ameliorate the signs and symptoms of that patient’s mental illness and to prevent:

(A) imminent probable death or substantial bodily harm to the patient because the patient:

(i) overtly or continually is threatening or attempting to commit suicide or serious bodily harm; or

(ii) is behaving in a manner that indicates that the patient is unable to satisfy the patient’s need for nourishment, essential medical care, or self-protection; or

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.4 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

§ 415.5. General Principles

(a) All state facilities and LAs will establish and implement written policies and procedures as approved by their medical staff in accordance with this subchapter.

(b) The prescribing professional will practice within the scope of his or her license with supervision as appropriate to that license.

(c) The prescribing of psychoactive medication will be in accordance with accepted guidelines. Use of psychoactive medication that falls outside accepted guidelines may be permissible if the clinical rationale is documented in the patient record.

(d) In no case will psychoactive medication be used for punishment, for convenience of staff, as a substitute for appropriate psychosocial treatments, or in amounts that interfere with a patient’s quality of life or plan of care.

(e) The patient’s plan of care will reflect any use of psychoactive medication as part of an integrated treatment approach aimed at increasing the patient’s functioning and quality of life.

(f) The prescribing professional will document the rationale for initiating, continuing, or discontinuing psychoactive medication in the clinical record.

(g) Medications traditionally considered psychoactive may be prescribed for nonpsychiatric indications if such use is supported by accepted guidelines and the provisions of this subchapter would not apply.

(h) If a service setting must meet other standards (external or otherwise), the more stringent standards will prevail.

(i) The service setting will have policies and procedures governing the scope of practice regarding prescription of psychoactive medications when the prescribing professional is not a psychiatrist. These policies and procedures must require involvement of a psychiatrist and describe the nature, extent, and time frame of this involvement regarding the following:

(1) initiation of any psychoactive medication;

(2) significant changes in the medication regimen other than simple titration or substitution of equivalent medications;

(3) institution of polypharmacy under § 415.7(e)(4) of this title (relating to Prescribing Parameters); and

(4) prescription of any regimen that falls outside accepted guidelines, including dosing guidelines.

(j) Each service setting must ensure psychiatric consultation is available at all times.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.5 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

§ 415.6. Evaluation and Diagnosis

(a) Prior to initiating psychoactive medication according to accepted guidelines, the prescribing professional will:

(1) assess and document the medical history including the chief complaint, psychiatric history, substance use history, and medication history along with medication allergies of the patient;

(2) conduct and document a mental status examination of the patient according to accepted guidelines;

(3) assess and document the current physical status and general health of the patient in detail sufficient for safe prescription of the medication contemplated and may include a reference to a physical examination conducted within the past 12 months, a physical examination by the physician, or a referral of the patient for a more thorough examination as appropriate to health status and service setting;

(4) assess and document the need for laboratory screening and other procedures to gather relevant clinical information; and

(5) make and document the psychiatric diagnosis in accordance with the DSM and within the scope of the professional's license.

(b) The prescribing professional will solicit input and discuss with the team the the proposed treatment with psychoactive medication.

(c) If psychoactive medication known to cause movement disorders is contemplated, an appropriately trained and competent staff will screen the patient for abnormal involuntary movements using a standardized procedure such as the Abnormal Involuntary Movement Scale (AIMS) or Dyskinesia Identification System Condensed User Scale (DISCUS), as appropriate, and document the result of the examination prior to initiation of the medication.

(d) In a psychiatric emergency, the assessments and documentation required by this section will take place as soon as is feasible after the emergency. If the patient has already received such assessments during this treatment episode, then the prescribing professional will document only those assessments and decisions that directly relate to the emergency.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.6 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

§ 415.7. Prescribing Parameters

(a) Target signs and symptoms. The prescribing professional will identify and document the target signs and symptoms along with their initial frequency and severity for each medication prescribed prior to its initial use.

(b) Choice of psychoactive medication. The prescribing professional will choose the psychoactive medication in accordance with accepted guidelines.

(c) Laboratory and screenings. The prescribing professional will identify, order, and follow up any laboratory tests, screenings, or other procedures indicated by the proposed psychoactive medication and the physical condition of the patient in accordance with accepted guidelines.

(d) Dose and route of administration. The prescribing professional will choose doses at or below the maximum doses indicated in the TDMHMR Formulary. Higher doses or unusual routes of administration may be used with documentation in the patient record of appropriate supporting clinical rationale. The use of nasogastric intubation requires consultation with a second physician with documentation of the consultation in the supporting clinical rationale.

(e) Polypharmacy. The prescribing professional will not prescribe polypharmacy as a mechanism to avoid single drug dosage recommendations, adequate monotherapy drug trials, or adequate psychosocial treatment or programming. Polypharmacy is acceptable practice when:

(1) overlapping medications are used as part of a change from one medication to another;

(2) currently prescribed medication is not available in the route most appropriate to a psychiatric emergency situation;

(3) documentation exists of inadequate patient response after simpler and safer regimens have been attempted following accepted guidelines; or

(4) accepted guidelines provide no guidance and appropriate single drug trials have failed, provided the rationale for determining the choice to prescribe polypharmacy is documented to support the situation, and:

(A) the prescribing professional is privileged through the medical staff privileging process to prescribe psychoactive medication; and

(B) the prescribing professional is a psychiatrist, or in the case of a child patient, a child psychiatrist, or consults with a psychiatrist or a child psychiatrist as appropriate prior to initiating polypharmacy.

(f) Orders not written in person. The service setting will have policies and procedures which govern orders not written in person (such as verbal, telephone, fax, or electronic orders) by the prescribing professional. These will address who may give orders, who may accept them, and how orders will be documented in the patient record. Orders will be authenticated by the prescribing professional within a time frame appropriate to the service setting as set forth in that setting's approved policies and procedures.

(g) PRN orders. The prescribing professional may write PRN orders in accordance with accepted guidelines and Chapter 414, Subchapter I of this title (relating to Consent to Treatment with Psychoactive Medication-Mental Health Services). The service setting will have policies and procedures for PRN orders that address:

(1) indications;

(2) appropriate medication classes and dosing, including maximum dose in 24 hours; and

(3) time frames for:

(A) medication administration;

(B) order duration;

(C) assessment of effectiveness;

(D) continued PRN use; and

(E) documentation standards that apply to the order itself and the assessments.

(h) Psychiatric emergency orders. The physician may order a single, immediate administration of a psychoactive medication(s) for a psychiatric emergency. The service setting will have policies and procedures for emergency use of psychoactive medications in accordance with accepted guidelines and Chapter 414, Subchapter I of this title, governing Consent to Treatment with Psychoactive Medication-Mental Health Services, and Chapter 412, Subchapter H, governing Standards and Quality Assurance for Mental Retardation Community Services and Supports as appropriate that address:

(1) indications;

(2) appropriate medication classes and dosing, including maximum dose in 24 hours;

(3) assessment of effectiveness;

(4) patient education;

(5) review with consideration of changing the current plan of care if a pattern of use of psychiatric emergency orders emerges; and

(6) documentation time frames and standards that address the incident, the use of medications, and the outcome.

§ 415.8. Emergency Use of Psychoactive Medication

(a) Emergency psychoactive medications are used to treat the signs and symptoms of mental illness in a psychiatric emergency when other interventions are ineffective or inappropriate.

(b) The selection of the medication should take into account the patient's current medication regimen. Using a medication that the patient is currently prescribed is preferable, if clinically indicated.

(c) All required documentation will be entered into the patient's record as soon as the emergency abates.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.8 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

§ 415.9. Consent and Patient Education

(a) Informed consent for treatment with a psychoactive medication will be obtained in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 414, Subchapter I of this title (relating to Consent to Treatment with Psychoactive Medication - Mental Health Facilities) or Chapter 405, Subchapter I of this title (relating to Consent to Treatment with Psychotropic Medication - Mental Retardation Facilities), as appropriate.

(b) The use of PRN medication requires an appropriate consent process in accordance with the provisions referred to in subsection (a) of this section.

(c) The service setting will provide individual and group medication education when appropriate to patients, their families, and LARs according to accepted guidelines (e.g., TIMA patient and family education guidelines). If accepted guidelines do not exist, the education will discuss characteristics of the medication, including expected benefits, potential adverse or side effects, dosage, standard alternative treatments, legal rights, and any questions the patient, family, or LAR may have. Education is also provided to address significant changes in the patient's medication regimen.

(d) The service setting will have policies and procedures to address medication education and documentation standards.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.9 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

§ 415.10. Medication Monitoring

(a) All patients receiving psychoactive medication will receive timely ongoing face-to-face evaluation and documentation by the prescribing professional of:

- (1) data collected since the last follow-up, including data about the frequency, severity, and timing of target signs and symptoms;
- (2) effectiveness of the medication in treating target signs and symptoms; and
- (3) assessment for side effects and adverse effects.

(b) Using the assessment data and with input from the team, the prescribing professional will continue or alter the medication regimen to maximize the benefit to the patient.

(c) At initiation of a new medication or significant change in medication regimen, medication monitoring will occur as often as medically necessary and for the period of time needed to stabilize the clinical response. Such monitoring will occur at least weekly for one month in hospitals and crisis stabilization units (unless discharged in the interim) and at least monthly in outpatient and residential settings. Rationale for less frequent monitoring will be documented.

(d) Further minimum frequencies of medication monitoring in patients are:

- (1) state mental health facility settings—monthly as described in subsections (a) and (b) of this section. Also, every 90 days, the medication monitoring includes review of consent issues and long-term consequences of psychoactive medication;
- (2) state mental retardation facility settings—monthly review of data with appropriate members of the team and every third month (quarterly) face-to-face evaluation of the patient. Rationale for less frequent monitoring will be documented;
- (3) LA programs—medication monitoring appointments will be scheduled quarterly as described in subsections (a) and (b) of this section. Rationale for less frequent monitoring will be documented.

(e) For medications known to cause movement disorders, appropriately trained and competent staff will screen the patient quarterly for abnormal involuntary movements using a standardized procedure such as AIMS, document the results, and arrange for any appropriate follow-up with a psychiatrist or neurologist, if indicated.

(f) Clinically significant adverse effects or side effects will be evaluated by a physician, managed according to accepted guidelines, and addressed in the plan of care.

(g) Laboratory testing or other procedures needed for the continued safe and effective use of medication will be ordered according to accepted guidelines.

(h) In any service setting that operates a pharmacy, the pharmacist will evaluate medication orders and patient medication records in accordance with the rules of the Texas State Board of Pharmacy (Texas Administrative Code, Title 22, Part 15) and will include a review for dosage range according to the TDMHMR Formulary, polypharmacy, and PRN use. The service setting will have policies and procedures in place for doing this review and the documentation and outcome of any questions arising out of this review.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 415.10 adopted to be effective August 31, 2004, 29 TexReg 8325

(1) Patients with dyskinesias, including tardive dyskinesia.

(A) A diagnosis of a dyskinesia will be verified by a psychiatrist or neurologist and documented in the patient record along with suspected or known duration and severity.

(B) The patient and, as appropriate, family and LAR will receive relevant education about the diagnosis and its implications for psychoactive medication use.

(C) Risks and benefits of continued psychoactive medication use will be assessed and communicated to the patient and, as appropriate, family or LAR. If continued use is recommended, a new consent for medication will be obtained.

(D) If continued use of psychoactive medication is contemplated, then the prescribing professional, if not a psychiatrist or neurologist, must obtain and document consultation from a psychiatrist or neurologist.

(2) Children.

(A) Except in an emergency, if the prescribing professional is not a child psychiatrist, then prescribing psychoactive medication which falls outside accepted guidelines requires consultation from a child psychiatrist in addition to any other requirements.

(B) If the prescribing professional is a child psychiatrist, then use of polypharmacy is governed as indicated in § 415.7 of this title (relating to Prescribing Parameters).

(3) Patients with mental retardation.

(A) A specific psychiatric diagnosis will be made in accordance with the DSM prior to initiating psychoactive medication. If it is not possible to make a specific diagnosis in accordance with the DSM, clinical justification for initiating psychoactive medication will be documented.

(B) Except in an emergency or acute psychiatric hospitalization, psychoactive medications are prescribed only after behavioral and clinical baselines have been established.

(C) Specific target behaviors or clinical signs and quality of life outcomes must be objectively defined, quantified, and tracked using recognized empirical measurement methods appropriate to the service setting in order to monitor psychoactive medication efficacy.

(4) Patients with substance use disorders.

(A) Service settings will assess the occurrence of co-occurring psychiatric and substance use disorders during evaluations for medication, initiation of medication, and medication monitoring, and will have policies and procedures which address the assessment

(B) Provision of medication services to this population will be in accordance with accepted guidelines for patients with these comorbid conditions and will be in collaboration and coordination with other treatments that the patient may be receiving for substance use.

(5) Pregnant or nursing patients.

(A) Informed consent for use of psychoactive medication in this population must specifically document that the risk and benefits of that use on the fetus or infant have been discussed with the patient and, as appropriate, LAR and family.

(B) Prior to prescribing psychoactive medication, the prescribing professional will seek to collaborate with the physician or clinic providing prenatal, postnatal, or pediatric care to include providing, with consent, appropriate documentation of diagnoses and plan of care to that service provider.

(6) Geriatric patients. Service settings will have policies and procedures for prescribing psychoactive medication which are responsive to the special needs of geriatric patients.

(7) Other special populations. Prescribing professionals will be aware that other populations exist that may have particular clinical or special risk factors associated with their treatment with psychoactive medications. Consultation with an appropriate specialist or expert will be considered when treating these populations.

Such altered or independently developed device may not be used by the facility unless and until its use is approved, in writing, by the DSHS medical director for behavioral health.

(b) A staff member shall inspect a device before and after each use to ensure that it is clean, in good repair, and is free from tears or protrusions that may cause injury. Damaged devices shall not be used to restrain an individual and shall be repaired or discarded.

(c) Regardless of their commercial availability, the following types of devices shall not be used to implement a restraint:

(d) Except as otherwise permitted in this subsection, all forms of restraint, as well as a form of restraint in conjunction with seclusion, are intended to be used independently of one another. The physician shall document the clinical justification in the individual's medical record for the simultaneous use of more than one mechanical restraint device, a mechanical restraint device and personal restraint, a mechanical restraint device and seclusion, or personal restraint and seclusion.

The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with circulation, or so loosely as to permit chafing of the skin.

(2) Arm splints or elbow immobilizers—Strips of any material with padding that extend from below to above the elbow and which are secured around the arm with ties or hook-and-loop (e.g., Velcro(R)) tabs. If appropriate under the circumstances, they shall be secured so that the individual has full use of the hands. The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with circulation, or so loosely as to permit chafing of the skin.

(3) Belts—A cloth or leather band that is fastened around the waist and secured to a stationary object (e.g., chair frame) or used for securing the arms to the sides of the body. The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with breathing or circulation.

(4) Camisole—A sleeveless cloth jacket that covers the arms and upper trunk and is secured behind the individual's back. The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with breathing or circulation or to cause muscle strain. Staff members shall exercise caution when using this device, if at all, because it may impair balance and the individual's ability to break a fall.

(5) Chair restraint—A padded stabilized chair that supports all body parts and prevents the individual's voluntary egress from the chair without assistance (e.g., tabletop chair, Geri-chair). When wristlets or anklets are used to restrict movement from the chair, the devices must not be secured so tightly as to interfere with breathing or circulation.

(6) Enclosed bed—A bed with high side rails or another type of side enclosure and, in some cases, an enclosure (e.g., mesh or rails) over the bed that prevents the individual's voluntary egress from the bed without assistance.

(7) Helmet—A plastic, foam rubber, or leather head covering, such as a sports helmet, that may include an attached face guard but does not include a spit guard that interferes with breathing or obstructs the airway. The device shall be the proper size and the chinstrap shall not be so tight as to interfere with breathing or circulation.

(8) Mittens—A cloth, plastic, foam rubber, or leather hand covering such as boxing and other types of sport gloves that are secured around the wrist or lower arm with elastic, hook-and-loop (e.g., Velcro(R)) tabs, ties, paper tape, pull strings, buttons, or snaps. The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with circulation.

(9) Restraining net—Mesh fabric that is placed over an individual's upper and lower trunk with the head, arms, and lower legs exposed; the net shall be secured over a mattress to a bed frame and shall never be placed over the individual's head. The restraining net shall be loose enough to allow some movement. The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with breathing or circulation.

(10) Restraint bed—A stretcher of steel frame construction with a fabric cover. The restraint bed shall have an adjustable backrest and a padded mat which shall be used under the individual’s head and upper body to prevent injury. Approved wristlets, anklets, and belts shall be used to safely and securely limit the individual’s physical activity.

(11) Restraint board—A padded, rigid board to which an individual is secured face-up, unless that position is clinically contraindicated for that individual, in which case a clinically indicated position will be used and documented. This device shall not be used to restrain an individual in a behavioral emergency except when necessary to promptly transport an individual to another location.

(12) Restraint chair or gurney—A chair or gurney manufactured for the purpose of transporting or restraining an individual.

(13) Ties—A length of cloth or leather used to secure approved mechanical restraints (e.g., mittens, wristlets, arm splints, belts, anklets, vests) to a stationary object (e.g., bed or wheelchair frame) or to another approved mechanical restraint. Ties shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with breathing or circulation.

(14) Transport jacket—A heavy canvas sleeveless jacket that encases the arms and upper trunk, fastens with hook-and-loop (e.g., Velcro(R)) tabs and roller buckles, and is held in place with a strap between the legs. The device shall be used only as a temporary measure during transport.

(15) Vest—A sleeveless cloth jacket that covers the upper trunk and is fastened in the back or front with ties or hook-and-loop tabs (e.g., Velcro(R)). The vest may be secured to a stationary object (e.g., bed or chair frame). The vest and ties shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with breathing or circulation.

(16) Wristlets—Padded cloth or leather bands that are secured around the individual’s wrists or arms using hook-and-loop (e.g., Velcro(R)) or buckle fasteners and attached to a stationary object (e.g., bed frame, chair frame, or waist belt). The device shall not be secured so tightly as to interfere with circulation or so loosely as to permit chafing of the skin.

§415.273. Use of Restraint in Situations Involving Non-violent, Non-self-destructive Behavior

(a) If an assessment reveals non-violent, non-self-destructive behavior, as defined in §415.253 of this title (relating to Definitions), the facility shall use the least restrictive intervention that effectively protects the individual from harm. If the intervention is a restraint as defined in this subchapter, it shall only be used in the following circumstances:

(1) medically necessary;

(2) ordered by a physician;

(3) needed to ensure the individual's safety; and

(4) used only after less restrictive interventions have been considered, or attempted and determined to be ineffective, or are judged to be unlikely to protect the individual or others from harm.

(b) Prior to the application of a restraint for the management of non-violent, non-self-destructive behavior, an assessment of the individual shall be done to determine that the risks associated with the use of the restraint are outweighed by the risks of not using it.

(c) The physician's order for the restraint shall specify:

(1) a time limit on the use of the restraint;

(2) any special considerations for the use of restraint;

(3) the specific type of restraint to be used;

except that it shall be done sooner, when an earlier consultation is clinically indicated.

(f) The care of the individual shall be based on a rationale that reflects consideration of the individual's medical needs and health status.

(1) If the facility has made a clinical determination that its use of restraint for the management of non-violent, non-self-destructive behavior requires a frequency of assessment or an aspect of care or treatment that differs from the provisions of this subchapter governing restraint in a behavioral emergency, facility policies and procedures on the use of restraint for the management of non-violent, non-self-destructive behavior shall address:

(A) the facility's required frequency of assessment of the individual during restraint; and

(B) how the individual's circulation, hydration, elimination, level of distress and agitation, mental status, cognitive functioning, cardiac functioning, skin integrity, nutrition, exercise, and range of motion of extremities are to be assessed and addressed during restraint.

(2) The plan for monitoring the individual and the rationale for the frequency of monitoring shall be documented in the individual's medical record.

(g) A dentist at a facility, including any contractor providing dental services on the facility premises shall not restrain an individual for dental care or rehabilitation unless the restraint is ordered by the individual's physician. The dentist shall maintain a copy of the order in the individual's medical record and shall ensure compliance with the requirements of the order.

(h) Whenever a restraint is ordered by a physician, the ordering physician shall prescribe the frequency of assessment required for the individual during restraint and how the individual's circulation, hydration, elimination needs, level of distress and agitation, mental status, cognitive functioning, cardiac functioning, skin integrity, nutrition, exercise, and range of motion of extremities are to be assessed and addressed during restraint.

(c) Immediate danger of harm. a staff member may escort, prompt, or move an individual who is unable to respond in the affirmative or negative or is unable to move due to his or her psychiatric or medical condition if there is an imminent danger of harm to the individual because of a circumstance in the individual's immediate environment.

(d) Immobilization during medical, dental, diagnostic, or surgical procedure. a positioning or securing device used to maintain the position of, limit mobility of, or temporarily immobilize an individual, with the individual's consent, during medical, dental, diagnostic, or surgical procedures and that is a standard part of the procedure is not considered a restraint. The care of the individual shall be based on a rationale that reflects consideration of the individual's medical needs and health status.

(1) Facility policies and procedures on the use of immobilization during medical, dental, diagnostic and surgical procedures shall address:

(A) the frequency of assessment of the individual during immobilization; and

(B) how the individual's circulation, hydration, elimination needs, level of distress and agitation, mental status, cognitive functioning, cardiac functioning, skin integrity, nutrition, exercise, and range of motion of extremities are to be assessed during immobilization.

(C) The facility's documentation of any use of clinical timeout shall include a description of the conditions under which the clinical timeout was suggested and the individual's response to the suggestion.

(D) A decision by the individual to decline to begin, or remain in, clinical timeout or similar interventions may not result in the staff member's use of restraint or seclusion of the individual, unless the initiation and use of the restraint or seclusion is permitted under, and otherwise meets the requirements of, this subchapter. to physically force or use personal restraint or coercion to direct the individual to a clinical timeout areas or to prevent an individual from leaving an area separated from other individuals receiving services, constitutes a restraint and/or seclusion and renders the procedure subject to the requirements for restraint or seclusion, as applicable, described in this subchapter.

(2) Quiet time. An individual may request the use of quiet time and, unless clinically contraindicated, be granted quiet time.

(A) Under no circumstances may a staff member mandate quiet time for an individual. If a staff member does so, or if the individual wishes to terminate any self-initiated use of quiet time, and a staff member requires the individual to remain, the situation becomes a restraint and/or seclusion, as applicable, and becomes subject to the requirements for restraint or seclusion, as applicable, described in this subchapter.

(B) Unless a staff member terminates quiet time for clinical reasons, the individual may terminate quiet time at any time. Under no circumstances, except for clinical reasons, may a staff member coerce or force a client out of quiet time. (B) a condition manifested before the person reaches age 22 years;

(C) a condition likely to continue indefinitely; and

(D) a condition that results in substantial functional limitations in three or more of the following areas of major life activity: (i) self-care; (ii) understanding and use of language; (iii) learning; (iv) mobility; (v) self-direction; and (vi) capacity for independent living.

(c) This chapter does not apply to an establishment that:

(2) is conducted by or for the adherents of a well-recognized church or religious denomination for the purpose of providing facilities for the care or treatment of the sick who depend exclusively on prayer or spiritual means for healing, without the use of any drug or material remedy, if the establishment complies with safety, sanitary, and quarantine laws and rules.

Subchapter B.APPLICATION PROCEDURES§ 551.11. Criteria for Licensing

(a) A person or governmental unit, acting jointly or severally, must be licensed by DADS to establish, conduct, or maintain a facility in this state.

(b) An applicant for a license must submit a complete application form and license fee to DADS.

(c) An applicant for a license must affirmatively show that:

(1) the facility meets the standards of the Life Safety Code;

(2) the facility meets the construction standards in Subchapter D of this chapter (relating to Facility Construction); and

(3) the facility meets the standards for operation based on an on-site survey.

(d) Before issuing a license, DADS considers the background and qualifications of:

(1) the applicant or license holder; and

(2) a controlling person of the applicant or license holder.

(e) DADS issues a license if it finds that the facility and any person described in subsection (d) of this section meets all requirements of this chapter. The license is valid for two years. Each license specifies the maximum allowable number of residents to be cared for at any one time. The number of residents authorized by the license must not be exceeded.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.11 adopted to be effective August 31, 1993, 18 TexReg 2557; transferred effective September 1, 1993, as published in the Texas Register September 3, 1993, 18 TexReg 5885; amended to be effective September 1, 1994, 19 TexReg 5731; amended to be effective May 1, 1995, 20 TexReg 1659; amended to be effective May 1, 1998, 23 TexReg 4060; amended to be effective April 1, 1999, 24 TexReg 1816; amended to be effective May 1, 2002, 27 TexReg 3369; amended to be effective September 1, 2009, 34 TexReg 5139; amended to be effective September 1, 2010, 35 TexReg 7876; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.12. Building Approval

(a) Local fire authority. All applications for licensure must include the written approval of the local fire authority having jurisdiction that the facility and its operation meet local fire ordinances.

(b) Local health authority. The following procedures allow the local health authority to provide recommendations to DHS concerning licensure of a facility.

(1) New facility. The sponsor of a new facility under construction or a previously unlicensed facility must provide to DHS a copy of a dated written notice to the local health authority that construction or modification has been or will be completed by a specific date. The sponsor must also provide a copy of a dated written notice of the approval for occupancy by the local fire marshal or local building code authority, if applicable. The local health authority may provide recommendations to DHS regarding the status of compliance with local codes, ordinances, or regulations. An application for an increase in capacity for a new facility that was not included in the bed plan approved under the Health and Safety Code, § 533.062 will not be approved by DHS, as outlined under § 90.14 of this title (relating to Increase in Capacity).

(2) Increase in capacity. The license holder must request an application for increase in capacity from DHS. DHS provides the license holder with the application form, and DHS notifies the local fire marshal and the local health authority of the request. The license holder must arrange for the inspection of the facility by the local fire marshal. Upon completion of the inspection, the license holder must notify the local health authority and DHS in writing if the facility meets local code requirements. DHS approves the application only if the facility is found to be in compliance with the standards. Approval to occupy the increased capacity may be granted by DHS prior to the issuance of the license covering the increased capacity after inspection by DHS if standards are met. An application for an increase in capacity that was not included in the bed plan approved under the Health and Safety Code, § 533.062 will not be approved by DHS, as outlined under § 90.14 of this title.

(3) Change of ownership. The applicant for a change of ownership license must provide to DHS a copy of a letter notifying the local health authority of the request for a change of ownership.

(4) Renewal. DHS sends the local health authority a copy of DHS's license renewal notice specifying the expiration date of the facility's current license. The local health authority may provide recommendations to DHS regarding the status of compliance with local codes, ordinances, or regulations. The local authority may also recommend that a state license be issued or denied; however, the final decision on licensure status remains with DHS.

§ 551.15. Renewal Procedures and Qualifications

(a) A license expires three years after the date it is issued, except as provided in subsections (b)(1) and (c)(1) of this section. HHSC does not automatically renew a license. For a license to remain in effect after its expiration date, a license holder must apply to renew the license in accordance with this section.

(b) If HHSC renews a license that expires after December 31, 2018, and before January 1, 2020, HHSC:

(1) issues a license that is valid for two years, if the license is for a facility with a facility identification number that ends in 0-3 or 7-9; and

(2) issues a license that is valid for three years, if the license is for a facility with a facility identification number that ends in 4-6.

(c) If HHSC renews a license that expires after December 31, 2019, and before January 1, 2021, HHSC:

(1) issues a license that is valid for two years, if the license is for a facility with a facility identification number that ends in 4-6; and

(2) issues a license that is valid for three years, if the license is for a facility with a facility identification number that ends in 0-3 or 7-9.

(d) To renew a license, a license holder must submit to HHSC a timely and sufficient application to renew the license. A license holder has submitted a timely and sufficient application to renew a license if:

(1) the license holder submits the following to HHSC so HHSC receives it no later than the 45th day before the license expires:

(A) the fee required by § 90.19(a)(1) of this subchapter; and

(B) one of the following: (i) a complete application; or (ii) an incomplete application with a letter explaining the circumstances that prevent the license holder from including the missing information; or

(2) the license holder submits the following to HHSC so HHSC receives it during the 45-day period ending on the date the license expires:

(A) the fee and documentation described in paragraph (1)(A) and (B) of this subsection; and

(B) the late renewal fee described in § 90.19(a)(4) of this subchapter (relating to License Fees).

(e) If HHSC receives an application that is postmarked before the submission deadline, the application is timely if:

(1) HHSC's Long-term Care Regulatory Licensing and Credentialing Section receives the application within 15 days after the postmark; or

(2) HHSC's Long-term Care Regulatory Licensing and Credentialing Section receives the application within 30 days after the postmark and the license holder proves to HHSC that the delay was the fault of the United States Postal Service.

(f) It is the responsibility of a license holder to ensure that its application is timely received by HHSC.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.15 adopted to be effective October 29, 2018, 43 TexReg 7196; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.16. Change of Ownership and Notice of Changes

(a) A license holder may not transfer its license. If a change of ownership occurs, the license holder's license becomes invalid on the date of the change of ownership. The prospective new license holder must obtain a license in accordance with subsection (b) of this section.

(b) A prospective new license holder must submit to DADS:

(1) a complete application for a license under § 90.11 of this subchapter (relating to Criteria for Licensing) or an incomplete application with a letter explaining the circumstances that prevented the inclusion of the missing information;

(2) the application fee, in accordance with § 90.19 of this subchapter (relating to License Fees); and

(3) signed, written notice from the facility's existing license holder of intent to transfer operation of the facility to the applicant beginning on a date specified by the applicant, unless waived in accordance with subsection (d) of this section.

(c) To avoid a facility operating without a license, a prospective license holder must submit all items in subsection (b) of this section by U.S. mail postmarked at least 30 days before the anticipated date of the change of ownership and received in DADS Licensing and Credentialing Section, Regulatory Services Division, within 15 days after the date of the postmark.

(d) The notice required by subsection (b)(3) of this section may be waived by DADS if DADS determines that the prospective license holder presented evidence showing that circumstances prevented the submission of the notice and that not waiving the notice would create a threat to resident welfare or health and safety.

(e) DADS conducts an on-site health inspection to verify compliance with the licensure requirements before issuing a license as a result of a change of ownership. DADS may conduct a desk review instead of an on-site health inspection before issuing a license as a result of a change of ownership if:

(1) less than 50 percent of the direct or indirect ownership interest in the former license holder changed, when compared to the new license holder; or

(2) every owner with a disclosable interest in the new license holder had a disclosable interest in the former license holder.

(f) DADS, in its sole discretion, may conduct an on-site Life Safety Code inspection before issuing a license as a result of a change of ownership.

(g) The effective date of the license is the same date as the effective date of the change of ownership and cannot precede the date the application was received by DADS Licensing and Credentialing Section, Regulatory Services Division.

(h) If a license holder changes its name but does not undergo a change of ownership, the license holder must notify DADS and submit documentation evidencing a legal name change. On receipt of the notice and documentation, DADS reissues the current license in the license holder's new name.

(i) If a license holder adds an owner with a disclosable interest, but the license holder does not undergo a change of ownership, the license holder must notify DADS of the addition no later than 30 days after the addition of the owner.

(e) If an applicant for a new license owns multiple facilities, DADS examines the overall record of compliance in all of the applicant's facilities. Denial of a new license will not preclude the renewal of licenses for the applicant's other facilities with a history of compliance with licensing regulations.

(f) DADS does not approve as meeting licensing standards new beds or the expansion of a facility serving persons with mental retardation or related conditions that participates in the medical assistance program under Title XIX of the Social Security Act, as provided by the Texas Health and Safety Code, § 533.062, unless the new beds or the ex-

§ 551.21. Time Periods for Processing License Applications

(a) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) only processes applications received within 60 days before the requested date of the issuance of the license.

(b) An application is complete when all requirements for licensing have been met, including compliance with standards. If an inspection for compliance is required, the application is not complete until the inspection has occurred, reports are reviewed, and the applicant complies with the standards.

(c) If the application is postmarked by the filing deadline, the application is considered to be timely filed if received in the Facility Enrollment Section of the state office of Long Term Care-Regulatory, Texas Department of Human Services, within 15 days of the postmark.

(d) Long Term Care-Regulatory notifies facilities within 30 days of receipt of the application if any of the following applications are incomplete: initial application, change of ownership, renewal, and increase in capacity.

(e) A license is issued or denied within 30 days of the receipt of a complete application or within 30 days before the expiration date of the license. DHS may delay action on an application for renewal of a license for up to six months if the facility is subject to a proposed or pending licensure termination action on or within 30 days before the expiration date of the license. The issuance of the license constitutes DHS's official written notice to the facility of the acceptance and filing of the application.

(f) Reimbursement of fees.

(1) In the event the application is not processed in the time periods as stated, the applicant has a right to request of the program director full reimbursement of all filing fees paid in that particular application process. If the program director does not agree the established periods have been violated or finds good cause existed for exceeding the established periods, the request will be denied. Good cause for exceeding the period established is considered to exist if:

(A) the number of applications to be processed exceeds by 15% or more the number processed in the same calendar quarter of the preceding year;

(B) another public or private entity used in the application process caused the delay; or

(C) other conditions existed giving good cause for exceeding the established periods.

(2) If the request for full reimbursement is denied, the applicant may appeal directly to the commissioner of DHS for resolution of the dispute. The applicant must send a written statement to the commissioner that describes the request for reimbursement and the reasons for it. The program also may send a written statement to the commissioner that describes the program's reasons for denying reimbursement. The commissioner makes a timely decision concerning the appeal and notifies the applicant and the program in writing of the decision.

§ 551.22. Relocation

(a) A license holder may not relocate a facility to another location without approval from the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS). The license holder must submit a complete application and the fee required under § 90.19 of this title (relating to License Fees) to DHS before the relocation.

(b) Residents may not be relocated until the new building has been inspected and approved as meeting the standards of the Life Safety Code as applicable to intermediate care facilities serving persons with mental retardation or a related condition.

(c) Following Life Safety Code approval by DHS, the license holder must notify DHS of the date residents will be relocated. If the new facility meets the standards for operation based on an on-site survey, a license will be issued.

(d) The effective date of the license will be the date all residents are relocated.

(e) The license holder must continue to maintain the license at the current location and must continue to meet all requirements for operation of the facility until the date of the relocation.

(f) This section applies to relocation of a currently licensed facility. See § 90.14 of this title (relating to Increase in Capacity) for regulations governing capacity increases.

Subchapter C.

STANDARDS FOR LICENSURE

§ 551.42. Standards for Facilities Serving Individuals with an Intellectual Disability or Related Conditions

(a) Purpose. The purpose of this section is to promote the public health, safety, and welfare by providing for the development, establishment, and enforcement of standards:

(1) for the habilitation of individuals based on an active treatment program in facilities governed by this chapter; and

(2) for the establishment, construction, maintenance, and operation of such facilities that view an intellectual disability and related conditions within the context of a developmental model in accordance with the principle of normalization.

(b) Philosophy. A facility regulated by the standards in this section is known as an intermediate care facility for individuals with an intellectual disability or related conditions (ICF/IID). Individuals in these facilities have the same civil rights, equal liberties, and due process of law as other individuals, plus the right to receive active treatment and habilitation. Facilities shall provide and promote services that enhance the development of such individuals, maximize their achievement through an interdisciplinary approach based on developmental principles, and create an environment, to the extent possible, that is normalized and normalizing.

(c) Standards. Each ICF/IID must comply with regulations promulgated by the United States Department of Health and Human Services in Title 42, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Part 483, Subpart I, §§ 483.400 - 483.480. Additionally, DADS adopts by reference the federal regulations governing conditions of participation for the ICF/IID program as specified in 42 CFR, Part 483, Subpart I, §§ 483.410, 483.420, 483.430, 483.440, 483.450, 483.460, 483.470, and 483.480 as licensing standards.

(d) Precertification training conference for new providers of service. Each new provider must attend the precertification/prelicensure training conference prior to licensing by DADS. The purpose of the training is to assure that providers of services are familiar with the licensing requirements and to facilitate the delivery of quality services to residents in facilities serving persons with an intellectual disability or related conditions.

(1) A new provider is an entity which has not had at least one year of administering services in a facility serving persons with an intellectual disability or related conditions in Texas. All new providers must attend a precertification training conference prior to the life safety code survey.

(2) Each new provider must designate at least one individual who will be involved with the direct management of the facility to attend the training conference prior to a health survey being scheduled.

(3) Each new provider will be given a training schedule. DADS will schedule training sessions, and the date, time, and location of the training will be indicated on the schedule.

(e) Additional requirements.

(1) A facility must develop and implement policies and procedures for reporting abuse, neglect, and exploitation to the Department of Family and Protective Services and reporting other incidents to DADS.

(2) In the area of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), the following apply:

(A) At least one staff person per shift and on duty must be trained by a CPR instructor certified by an organization such as the American Heart Association or the Red Cross.

(B) The facility must ensure that staff members maintain their certification as recommended by such organizations.

(3) In the area of behavior management, seclusion of residents may not be used.

(4) In the area of physical restraints, the following apply:

(A) A facility must not use restraint: (i) in a manner that:

(I) obstructs the resident's airway, including the placement of anything in, on, or over the resident's mouth or nose;

(II) impairs the resident's breathing by putting pressure on the resident's torso;

(III) interferes with the resident's ability to communicate;

(IV) extends muscle groups away from each other;

(V) uses hyperextension of joints; or

(VI) uses pressure points or pain; (ii) for disciplinary purposes, that is, as retaliation or retribution; (iii) for the convenience of staff or other residents; or (iv) as a substitute for effective treatment or habilitation.

(B) A facility may use restraint: (i) in a behavioral emergency; (ii) as an intervention in a behavior therapy program that addresses inappropriate behavior exhibited voluntarily by a resident; (iii) during a medical or dental procedure if necessary to protect the resident or others and as a follow-up after a medical or dental procedure or following an injury to promote the healing of wounds; (iv) to protect the resident from involuntary self-injury; and (v) to provide postural support to the resident or to assist the resident in obtaining and maintaining normative bodily functioning.

(C) In order to decrease the frequency of the use of restraint and to minimize the risk of harm to a resident, a facility must ensure that the interdisciplinary team: (i) with the participation of a physician, or a physician assistant or an advanced practice nurse acting within the scope of his or her practice, identifies:

(I) the resident's known physical or medical conditions that might constitute a risk to the resident during the use of restraint;

(II) the resident's ability to communicate; and

(III) other factors that must be taken into account if the use of restraint is considered, including the resident's:

(-a-) cognitive functioning level;

(-b-) height;

(-c-) weight;

(-d-) emotional condition (including whether the resident has a history of having been physically or sexually abused); and

(-e-) age; (ii) documents the conditions and factors identified in accordance with clause (i) of this subparagraph, and, as applicable, limitations on specific restraint techniques or mechanical restraint devices in the resident's record; and (iii) reviews and updates with a physician, physician assistant, or licensed nurse, at least annually or when a condition or factor documented in accordance with clause (ii) of this subparagraph changes significantly, information in the resident's record related to the identified condition, factor, or limitation.

(D) If a facility restrains a resident as provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the facility must: (i) take into account the conditions, factors, and limitations on specific restraint techniques or mechanical restraint devices documented in accordance with subparagraph (C)(ii) and (iii) of this paragraph; (ii) use the minimal amount of force or pressure that is reasonable and necessary to ensure the safety of the resident and others; (iii) safeguard the resident's dignity, privacy, and well-being; and (iv) not secure the resident to a stationary object while the resident is in a standing position.

(E) If a facility uses restraint in a circumstance described in subparagraph (B)(i) or (ii) of this paragraph: (i) the facility may use only a personal hold in which the resident's limbs are held close to the body to limit or prevent movement and that does not violate the provisions of subparagraph (A)(i) of this paragraph; and (ii) if a resident rolls into a prone or supine position during restraint, the facility must transition the resident to a side, sitting, or standing position as soon as possible. The facility may only use a prone or supine hold:

(I) as a transitional hold, and only for the shortest period of time necessary to ensure the protection of the resident or others;

(II) as a last resort, when other less restrictive interventions have proven to be ineffective; and

(III) except in a small facility, when an observer who is trained to identify risks associated with positional, compression, or restraint asphyxiation, and with prone and supine holds is ensuring that the resident's breathing is not impaired.

(F) A facility must release a resident from restraint: (i) as soon as the resident no longer poses a risk of imminent physical harm to the resident or others; or (ii) if the resident in restraint experiences a medical emergency, as soon as possible as indicated by the medical emergency.

(G) If a facility restrains a resident as provided in subparagraph (B)(i) of this paragraph, the facility must obtain a written order authorizing the restraint from a health care professional acting within his or her scope of practice by the end of the first business day after the use of restraint.

(H) A facility must ensure that each resident and the resident's legally authorized representative are notified of the DADS rules and the facility's policies related to restraint and seclusion.

(I) A facility may adopt policies that allow less use of restraint than allowed by the rules of this chapter.

(5) In the area of pharmacy services, the following applies.

(A) All pharmacy services must comply with the Texas State Board of Pharmacy requirements, the Texas Pharmacy Act, and rules adopted thereunder, the Texas Controlled Substances Act, and Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 483 (relating to Dangerous Drugs).

(B) All medications must be ordered orally or in writing by a health care professional acting within the scope of his or her practice. Oral orders may be taken only by a licensed nurse, a pharmacist, physician assistant, or physician, and must be immediately transcribed and signed by the individual taking the order. Oral orders must be signed by the health care professional who ordered the medication within seven working days after issuing the order.

(C) The facility, with input from the consultant pharmacist and a health care professional acting within the scope of his or her practice, must develop and implement procedures regarding automatic stop orders for medications. These procedures must be utilized when the order for a medication does not specify the number of doses to be given or the time for discontinuance or re-order.

(6) Specialized nutrition support (delivery of parenteral nutrients and enteral feedings by nasogastric, gastrostomy, or jejunostomy tubes) must be given:

(A) by a health care professional acting within the scope of his or her practice or by a person to whom a health care professional has properly delegated performance of the task; and

(B) in accordance with an order issued by a health care professional acting within the scope of his or her practice.

(7) In the area of self-administration of medication and emergency medication kits, the following apply.

(A) Residents who have demonstrated the competency for self-administration of medications must have access to and maintain their own medications. They must have an individual storage space that permits them to store their medications under lock and key.

(B) Residents may participate in a self-administration of medication training program if the interdisciplinary team determines that self-administration of medications is an appropriate objective. Residents participating in a self-administration of medication training program must have training in coordination with and as part of the resident's total active treatment program. The resident's training plan must be evaluated as necessary by a licensed nurse. The supervision and implementation of a self-administration of medication training program may be conducted by personnel described in § 90.43(a)(1), (3), and (4) of this subchapter (relating to Administration of Medication).

(C) A facility may maintain a supply of controlled substances in an emergency medication kit for a resident's emergency medication needs, as outlined under § 90.324 and § 90.325 of this chapter (relating to Emergency Medication Kit and Controlled Substances).

(8) In the area of communicable diseases, the facility must have written policies and procedures for the control of communicable diseases in employees and residents. When any reportable communicable disease becomes evident, the facility must report in accordance with Communicable Disease and Prevention Act, Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 81, or as specified in 25 TAC §§ 97.1 - 97.13 (relating to Control of Communicable Diseases) and 25 TAC §§ 97.131 - 97.146 (relating to Sexually Transmitted Diseases Including Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (AIDS) and Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV)) and in the publication titled, "Reportable Diseases in Texas," Publication 6-101a (Revised 1987). The local health authority should be contacted to assist the facility in determining the transmissibility of the disease and, in the case of employees, the ability of the employee to continue performing his duties. The facility must have written policies and procedures for infection control, which include implementation of universal precautions as recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

(9) In the area of water activities, the facility must assure the safety of all individuals who participate in facility-sponsored events. For the purpose of this section, a water activity is defined as an activity which occurs in or on water that is knee deep or deeper on the majority of individuals participating in the event.

To assure the safety of all individuals who participate, the requirements in subparagraphs (A) - (F) of this paragraph apply.

(A) The facility must develop a policy statement regarding the water sites utilized by the facility. Water sites include, but are not limited to, lakes, amusement parks, and pools.

(B) A minimum of one staff person with demonstrated proficiency in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) must be on duty and at the site when individuals are involved in water activities.

(C) A minimum of one person with demonstrated proficiency in water life saving skills must be on duty and at the site when activities take place in or on water that is deep enough to require swimming for life saving retrieval. This person must maintain supervision of the activity for its duration.

(D) A sufficient number of staff or a combination of staff and volunteers must be available to meet the safety requirements of the group and/or specific individuals.

(E) Each individual's program plan must address each person's needs for safety when participating in water activities including, but not necessarily limited to, medical conditions; physical disabilities and/or behavioral needs which could pose a threat to safety; the ability to follow directions and instructions pertaining to water safety; the ability to swim independently; and, when called for, special precautions.

(F) If the interdisciplinary team recommends the use of a flotation device as a precaution for any individual to engage in water activities, it must be identified and precautions outlined in the individual program plan. The device must be approved by the United States Coast Guard or be a specialized therapy flotation device utilized in the individual's therapy program.

(10) In the area of communication, a facility may not prohibit a resident or employee from communicating in the person's native language with another resident or employee for the purpose of acquiring or providing care, training, or treatment.

Subchapter D.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS FOR FACILITY CONSTRUCTION

§ 551.60. Construction and Initial Survey of Completed Construction

(a) Construction phase.

(1) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS), Long Term Care-Regulatory in Austin, Texas, must be notified in writing of construction start.

(2) All construction must be done in accordance with minimum licensing requirements. It is the sponsor's responsibility to employ qualified personnel to prepare the contract documents for construction of a new facility or remodeling of an existing facility. Contract documents for additions and remodeling and for the construction of an entirely new facility must be prepared by an architect licensed by the Texas State Board of Architectural Examiners. Drawings must bear the seal of the architect. Certain parts of final plans, designs, and specifications must bear the seal of a registered professional engineer approved by the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers to operate in Texas. These certain parts include sheets and sections covering structural, electrical, mechanical, and sanitary engineering.

(A) Remodeling is the construction, removal, or relocation of walls and partitions; the construction of foundations, floors, or ceiling-roof assemblies; the expanding or altering of safety systems (including, but not limited to, sprinkler, fire alarm, and emergency systems); or the conversion of space in a facility to a different use.

(B) General maintenance and repairs of existing material and equipment, repainting, applications of new floor, wall, or ceiling finishes, or similar projects are not included as remodeling, unless as a part of new construction. DHS must be provided flame spread documentation for new materials applied as finishes.

(b) Contract documents.

(1) Site plan documents must include grade contours; streets (with names); north arrow; fire hydrants; fire lanes; utilities, public or private; fences; unusual site conditions, such as ditches, low water levels, other buildings on-site; and indications of buildings five feet or less beyond site property lines.

(2) Foundation plan documents must include general foundation design and details.

(3) Floor plan documents must include room names, numbers, and usages; doors (numbered) including swing; windows; legend or clarification of wall types; dimensions; fixed equipment; plumbing fixtures; and kitchen basic layout; and identification of all smoke barrier walls (outside wall to outside wall) or fire walls.

(4) For both new construction and additions or remodeling to existing buildings, an overall plan of the entire building must be drawn or reduced to fit on an 8 1/2 inch by 11 inch sheet; submit two reduced plans for file record. See § 90.80(c)(3) of this title (relating to Construction and Initial Survey of Completed Construction).

(5) Schedules must include door materials, widths, types; window materials, sizes, types; room finishes; and special hardware.

(6) Elevations and roof plan must include exterior elevations, including material note indications and any roof top equipment; roof slopes, drains, and gas piping, and interior elevations where needed for special conditions.

(7) Details must include wall sections as needed (especially for special conditions); cabinet and built-in work, basic design only; cross sections through buildings as needed; and miscellaneous details and enlargements as needed.

(8) Building structure documents must include structural framing layout and details (primarily for column, beam, joist, and structural frame building); roof framing layout (when this cannot be adequately shown on cross section); cross sections in quantity and detail to show sufficient structural design and structural details as necessary to assure adequate structural design, also calculated design loads.

(9) Electrical documents must include electrical layout, including lights, convenience outlets, equipment outlets, switches, and other electrical outlets and devices; service, circuiting, distribution, and panel diagrams; exit light system (exit signs and emergency egress lighting); emergency electrical provisions (such as generators and panels); fire alarm and similar systems (such as control panel, devices, and alarms); sizes and details sufficient to assure safe and properly operating systems; and a staff communication system.

(10) Plumbing documents must include plumbing layout with pipe sizes and details sufficient to assure safe and properly operating systems, water systems, sanitary systems, gas systems, other systems normally considered under the scope of plumbing, fixtures, and provisions for combustion air supply.

(11) Heating, ventilation, and air-conditioning (HVAC) documents must include sufficient details of HVAC systems and components to assure a safe and properly operating installation including, but not limited to, heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning layout, ducts, protection of duct inlets and outlets, combustion air, piping, exhausts, and duct smoke and/or fire dampers; and equipment types, sizes, and locations.

(12) Sprinkler system documents must include plans and details of NFPA designed systems; plans and details of partial systems provided only for hazardous areas; electrical devices interconnected to the alarm system.

(13) Other layouts, plans, or details as may be necessary for a clear understanding of the design and scope of the project; including plans covering private water or sewer systems must be reviewed by the local health or wastewater authority having jurisdiction. If no local authority, then the plans will be reviewed by DHS.

(14) Specifications must include installation techniques, quality standards and/or manufacturers, references to specific codes and standards, design criteria, special equipment, hardware, painting, and any others as needed to amplify drawings and notes.

(c) Initial survey of completed construction.

(1) Upon completion of construction, including grounds and basic equipment and furnishings, a final construction inspection (initial survey) of the facility, including additions or remodeled areas, is required to be performed by DHS prior to occupancy. The completed construction must have the written approval of the local authorities having jurisdiction, including the fire marshal, and building inspector.

(2) After the completed construction has been surveyed by a representative of the architectural section of DHS and found acceptable, this information will be conveyed to the licensing officer as part of the information needed to issue a license to the facility. In the case of additions or remodeling of existing facilities, a revision or modification to an existing license may be necessary. Note that the building, grades, drives, parking and grounds must be essentially 100% complete at the time of this initial survey visit for occupancy approval and licensing, including basic furnishings and operational needs.

(3) A copy of the following documents must be available to DHS's surveyor at the time of the survey of the completed building:

(A) written approval of local authorities as called for in paragraph (1) of this subsection;

(B) written certification of the fire alarm system by the installing agent (Form FML-009 of the Texas State Fire Marshal);

(C) documentation of materials used in the building which are required to have a specific limited fire or flame spread rating, including, but not limited to, special wall finishes or floor coverings, flame retardant curtains (including cubicle curtains), and rated ceilings. This must include a signed letter from the installer verifying that the material installed is the same material named in the laboratory test document;

(D) approval of the completed sprinkler system installation by the designing engineer. A copy of the material list and test certification must be available;

(E) service contracts for maintenance and testing of systems, including, but not limited to, alarm systems and sprinkler systems;

(F) a copy of gas test results of the facility's gas lines from the meter;

(G) a written statement from an architect/engineer stating that he certifies that the building was constructed to meet NFPA 101, Life Safety Code, and all locally applicable codes, and that the facility is in substantial conformance with minimum licensing requirements; and

(H) the contract documents specified in subsection (b) of this section.

(d) Non-approval of new construction.

(1) If, during the initial on-site survey of completed construction, the surveyor finds certain basic requirements not met, he may recommend to DHS that the facility not yet be licensed and approved for occupancy. Such basic items may include the following:

(A) construction which does not meet minimum code or licensure standards for basic requirements such as corridor widths being less than eight feet clear width, ceilings installed at less than the minimum seven feet six inches height, resident bedroom dimensions less than required width, and other such features which would disrupt or otherwise adversely affect the residents and staff if corrected after occupancy;

(B) no written approval by local authorities;

(C) fire protection systems not completely installed or not functioning properly including, but not limited to, fire alarm systems, emergency power and lighting, and sprinkler systems;

(D) required exits are not all usable according to Life Safety Code requirements;

(E) telephone not installed or not properly working;

(F) sufficient basic furnishings, essential appliances and equipment are not installed or not functioning; and

(G) any other basic operational or safety feature which the surveyor, as the authority having jurisdiction, encounters which in his/her judgment would preclude safe and normal occupancy by residents on that day.

(2) If the surveyor encounters deficiencies that do not affect the health and safety of the residents, licensure may be recommended based on an approved written plan of correction by the facility's administrator.

(3) Copies of reduced size floor plan on an 8 1/2 inch by 11 inch sheet must be submitted in duplicate to DHS for record/file use and for such uses by the facility as evacuation planning and fire alarm zone identification. The plan must contain basic legible information such as overall dimensions, room usage names, actual bedroom numbers, doors, windows, and any other pertinent information.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.60 adopted to be effective July 1, 1996, 21 TexReg 5328; amended to be effective May 1, 1998, 23 TexReg 4060; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.61. Introduction, Application, and General Requirements for Facilities for Persons with an Intellectual Disability or Related Conditions

(a) Scope. The requirements of this section are applicable to both new and existing facilities unless stated otherwise.

(b) Purpose.

(1) The concept of requirements for fire safety with regard to the residents is based on evacuation capability as published in NFPA 101. These standards are written with the premise that the residents will be capable of self-evacuation without continuous staff assistance. Residents that are not normally capable of self-evacuation nor capable of negotiating stairs unassisted shall not be housed above or below the floor of exit discharge unless the facility meets the construction requirements of NFPA 101, Chapter 18, New Health Care Occupancies, or Chapter 19, Existing Health Care Occupancies, for large facilities, or the "impractical" requirements for small facilities as found in NFPA 101, Chapter 32, New Residential Board and Care Occupancies, or Chapter 33, Existing Residential Board and Care Occupancies. Examples of residents who may not be capable of self-evacuation are as follows:

(A) a person with a physical disability of a nature that he/she is not capable of maneuvering in a wheelchair, walker, etc., unaided;

(B) a person with an intellectual disability who will not take or cannot understand instructions from a staff member; or

(C) a person that is taking medication before bedtime which will make it difficult for a staff member to arouse the person quickly.

(2) The method of determining the evacuation capability of residents under NFPA 101, Chapter 32 or 33, is by rating each resident and each staff member to determine an evacuation difficulty score (E-score). If the E-score is 1.5 or less, the evacuation capability of the facility is prompt, greater than 1.5 to five is slow, greater than five is impractical. The worksheets to be completed are located in NFPA 101A, Guide on Alternative Approaches to Life Safety, Chapter 6. Intermediate care facilities for persons with an intellectual disability (ICF/ID) with 16 beds or less must meet the evacuation requirement for their designated Chapter 32 or 33 rating. The ratings and their requirements follow:

(A) Impractical rating. (i) The facility must have one fire drill per shift each calendar quarter (minimum of 12 drills per year). (ii) The facility must actually evacuate clients once a year on each shift. (iii) All facility staff, including relief and substitute staff, must participate in drills as soon as possible after beginning employment on their shift. (iv) For initial certification, one client must be admitted. (v) E-scores are not required for certification under this rating.

(B) Slow rating. (i) The facility must have one fire drill per shift each calendar quarter (minimum of 12 drills per year). (ii) The facility must actually evacuate clients during all drills. (iii) Staff on each shift must participate in drills. (iv) New, relief, and substitute staff must participate in a drill within ten days of employment on their assigned shift. (v) For initial certification, two clients must be admitted. (vi) E-scores must be calculated as soon as possible, but within ten calendar days of admission. (vii) Initial E-scores are based on four drills, as follows:

(I) two conducted during the daytime, and

(II) two conducted during the nighttime, after the first 30 minutes and within the first three hours of sleep. (viii) After the initial E-scores are obtained, a worksheet for rating residents must be completed for all newly admitted clients to obtain an E-score. The evacuation capability is calculated as described in clause (vii) of this subparagraph. (ix) E-scores must be updated annually or sooner if significant changes occur in any client's evacuation capability. These updated scores are based on the group's overall performance during fire drills as they are conducted throughout the year. Scores do not have to be calculated in accordance with the drills required for newly admitted clients based on the requirements stated in clause (vii) of this subparagraph.

(C) Prompt rating. (i) The facility must have one fire drill per shift each calendar quarter (minimum of 12 drills per year). (ii) The facility must actually evacuate clients during all drills. (iii) Staff on each shift must participate in drills. (iv) New, relief, and substitute staff must participate in a drill within ten days of employment on their assigned shift. (v) For initial certification, all six clients must be admitted. (vi) E-scores must be calculated as soon as possible, but within ten calendar days of admission. (vii) Initial E-scores are based on four drills, as follows:

(I) two conducted during the daytime, and

(II) two conducted during the nighttime, after the first 30 minutes and within the first three hours of sleep. (viii) After the initial E-scores are obtained, a worksheet for rating residents must be completed for all newly admitted clients to obtain an E-score. The evacuation capability is calculated as described in clause (vii) of this subparagraph. (ix) E-scores must be updated annually or sooner if significant changes occur that would affect a client's evacuation capability. These updated scores are based on the group's overall performance during fire drills as they are conducted throughout the year. Scores do not have to be calculated in accordance with the drills required for newly admitted clients based on the requirements stated in clause (vii) of this subparagraph.

(3) The "E" score will determine which NFPA 101 features are to be installed and maintained in the facility. These features include construction, fire alarm systems, smoke detector systems, interior finish, sprinkler systems, separation of bedrooms, and egress from the building.

(c) Construction.

(1) New construction is any construction work that began on or after July 5, 2016. The provisions of NFPA 101, Chapter 18 are applicable for large facilities, and Chapter 32 for small facilities.

(2) An existing facility is one that was operating with a license as a facility for persons with an intellectual disability and related conditions before November 1, 2016, and has not subsequently become unlicensed. The provisions of NFPA 101, Chapter 19 are applicable for large facilities, and Chapter 33 for small facilities.

(3) Alterations or new installations of building services equipment, such as mechanical and electrical systems, generators, fire alarm, and detection systems, etc., must be accomplished in conformance with the requirements for new construction as required by NFPA 101.

(4) Site approval, as required by the local health officer, building department, and/or fire marshal having jurisdiction, must be obtained. Any conditions considered to be a fire, safety, or health hazard will be grounds for disapproval of the site by the department unless applied in an arbitrary or discriminating manner.

(5) Facilities that renovate must provide documentation for the flame spread rate of any new materials applied as an interior finish.

(6) Life safety features and equipment that have been installed in existing buildings and are now in excess of that required by NFPA 101 must continue to be maintained or must be removed at the direction of DADS.

(7) When an existing licensed facility plans building additions or remodeling, which includes construction of additional resident beds, then the ratio of bathing units must be reevaluated to meet minimum standards and the square footage of dining and living areas must be reevaluated by DADS. Conversion of existing living, dining, or activity areas to resident bedrooms must not reduce these functions to an area less than required by minimum standards.

(8) Buildings must be of recognized permanent type construction. They must be structurally sound with regard to actual or expected dead, live, and wind loads according to applicable building codes.

(9) Each building must be classified as to the building construction type for fire resistance rating purposes in accordance with NFPA 220, Standard on Types of Building Construction, and NFPA 101.

(d) Applicable codes and standards. Except as provided in paragraph (9) of this subsection, a facility must comply with NFPA 101, NFPA 99, and a Tentative Interim Amendment (TIA) issued by the NFPA for NFPA 99 or NFPA 101, including the TIAs listed in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection. A facility must also comply with other NFPA publications referenced in this chapter and a TIA issued for a publication referenced in this chapter, unless otherwise approved or required by DADS.

(1) The following TIAs have been issued for NFPA 101:

(A) TIA 12-1 to NFPA 101, issued August 11, 2011;

(B) TIA 12-2 to NFPA 101, issued October 30, 2012;

(C) TIA 12-3 to NFPA 101, issued October 22, 2013;

and

(D) TIA 12-4 to NFPA 101, issued October 22, 2013.

(2) The following TIAs have been issued for NFPA 99:

(A) TIA 12-2 to NFPA 99, issued August 11, 2011;

(B) TIA 12-3 to NFPA 99, issued August 9, 2012;

(C) TIA 12-4 to NFPA 99, issued March 7, 2013;

(D) TIA 12-5 to NFPA 99, issued August 1, 2013;

and

(E) TIA 12-6 to NFPA 99, issued March 3, 2014.

(3) If the municipality has a building code and a plumbing code, then those codes must govern in those areas of construction. Where local codes or ordinances are applicable, the most restrictive parts concerning the same subject item must apply unless otherwise determined by the authority having jurisdiction for local codes and DADS.

(4) In the absence of such governing municipal codes, nationally recognized codes must be used, such as the Standard Building Code and the Standard Plumbing Code, both of the Southern Building Code Congress International, Inc. Such nationally recognized codes, when used, must all be publications of the same group or organization to assure the intended continuity.

(5) Heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning systems must be designed and installed in accordance with NFPA 90A, Standard for the Installation of Air Conditioning and Ventilating Systems, and NFPA 90B, Standard for the Installation of Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Systems, as applicable, and the American Society of Heating, Ventilating, and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE), except as may be modified in this subchapter.

(6) Electrical and illumination system must be designed and installed in accordance with NFPA 70, National Electrical Code, and the Lighting Handbook of the Illuminating Engineering Society of North America (IES) except as may be modified in this subchapter.

(7) The facility must meet all applicable provisions and requirements concerning accessibility for individuals with disabilities in the following laws and regulations: the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (Title 42, United States Code, Chapter 126); Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 35; Government Code, Chapter 469, Elimination of Architectural Barriers; and Title 16, , Chapter 68. Plans for new construction, substantial renovations, modifications, and alterations must be submitted to the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation (Attention: Elimination of Architectural Barriers Program) for accessibility approval under Chapter 469.

(8) A facility with a boiler must meet all applicable provisions and requirements of Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 755.

(9) A facility that is required to comply with NFPA 101, Chapter 33, must be in compliance with Chapter 33.2.3.5.7.1 or 33.2.3.5.7.2 by July 5, 2019.

(e) General requirements.

(1) The facility must provide and maintain furnishings and decorations that meet the needs of the residents.

(2) The building, grounds, and equipment must be maintained in good repair, operational, sanitary, and free of hazards.

(3) There must be at least one telephone (other than a pay phone) in the facility, accessible to residents for use in making calls to summon help in case of emergency.

(4) The facility must have:

(A) floors that are free of irregularities and are substantially level (floor areas may be at different elevations with connecting stairs or ramps);

(B) floors that have a resilient, nonabrasive, and slip-resistant surface;

(C) nonabrasive carpeting, if the area used by residents is carpeted and serves residents who lie on the floor or ambulate with parts of their bodies, other than feet, touching the floor; and

(D) exposed floor surfaces and floor coverings that promote mobility in areas used by residents and promote maintenance of sanitary conditions.

(5) Walls and ceilings must be cleanable and in good repair.

(6) Walls and floors must be kept free of cracks. The joint between the walls and floors is to be maintained so as to be free of spaces which might harbor insects, rodents, or vermin.

(7) An adequate supply of hot water must be provided. The hot water system for resident use must be capable of being regulated to not exceed 110 degrees Fahrenheit at the fixtures.

(8) Draperies, curtains (including cubicle curtains), and other similar furnishings and decorations must be flame resistant in accordance with NFPA 701, Standard Methods of Fire Tests for Flame Resistant Textiles and Films. Documentation must be kept on file in the facility.

(9) Wastebaskets must be of noncombustible material.

(10) An initial pressure test of facility gas lines from the meter must be provided. Additional pressure tests will be required when the facility has major renovations or additions where the gas service is interrupted. All gas heating systems must be checked for proper operation and safety prior to the heating season. Any unsatisfactory conditions must be corrected promptly.

(11) The IES recommendations must be followed to achieve proper illumination characteristics and lighting levels throughout the facility. Minimum illumination must be 10 foot candles in resident rooms during the day and 20 foot candles in corridors, staff stations, dining rooms, lobbies, toilets, bathing facilities, laundries, stairways, and elevators during the day. Illumination requirements for these areas apply to lighting throughout the space and should be measured at approximately 30 inches above the floor anywhere in the room. Minimum illumination for medication preparation or storage areas, kitchens, and staff station desks must be 50 foot candles during the day. Illumination requirements for these areas apply to the task performed and should be measured on the tasks.

(12) In addition to the required illumination (normal and emergency), the facility must keep on hand and readily available to night staff, no less than one working flashlight.

(13) Combustible attic areas larger than 3,000 square feet must be divided into compartments not exceeding 3,000 square feet or the attic area must be sprinkled. The separating barrier must be at least one layer of 1/2-inch gypsum board on one side of support members.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.61 adopted to be effective July 1, 1996, 21 TexReg 5328; amended to be effective May 1, 1998, 23 TexReg 4060; amended to be effective May 1, 2000, 25 TexReg 3557; amended to be effective May 1, 2004, 29 TexReg 3237; amended to be effective July 30, 2012, 37 TexReg 5629; amended to be effective October 12, 2017, 42 TexReg 5508; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.62. Site and Grounds

(a) General (All Facilities).

(1) Site grades shall provide for positive surface water drainage so that there will be no ponding or standing water at or near the building such as would present a hazard to health or provide a breeding site or harborage for disease vectors.

(2) Outdoor activity, recreational, and sitting spaces shall be provided and be accessible to all residents.

(3) Each facility shall have parking space to satisfy the needs of residents, employees, staff, and visitors.

(4) Protection shall be provided for resident safety on facility grounds by the use of appropriate methods, such as fences, hedges, retaining walls, railings, or other landscaping. Such protection shall not inhibit the free emergency egress to a safe distance away from the building.

(5) All outside areas, grounds, adjacent buildings, etc., on the site shall be maintained in good condition and kept free of rubbish, garbage, untended growth, and other conditions which may constitute a fire or health hazard.

(b) Additional site conditions (large facilities only).

(1) Auxiliary buildings located on the site within 20 feet of the main licensed structure and which contain hazardous operations or contents, such as laundries or storage buildings, shall meet the same code requirements for safety as the main licensed structure, or the building shall be moved to be 20 feet or farther away from the main building.

(2) Other buildings on the site shall meet the appropriate occupancy section or separation requirements of National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 101 Life Safety Code.

(3) A new building (or addition) shall be set back at least ten feet from the property lines except as otherwise approved by DHS.

(4) Exit doors from the building shall not open directly onto a drive for vehicular traffic, but shall be set back at least six feet from the edge of such drive (measured from the end of building wall in the case of a recessed door) to prevent accidents due to lack of visual warning. These doors are to have automatic or self-closures.

(5) Walks shall be provided from all exits and shall be of non-slip surfaces free of hazards. Walks shall be at least 48 inches wide except as otherwise approved. Ramps should be used in lieu of steps where grade change is 21 inches or less, and where possible, for persons with physical disabilities and/or mobility impairment, and to facilitate bed or wheelchair removal in an emergency.

(6) Open or enclosed courts with resident rooms or living areas opening upon them shall not be less than 20 feet in the smallest dimension unless otherwise approved by the department.

(7) There shall be at least one approved readily accessible fire hydrant located within 300 feet of the building. The hydrant, its location, and service line, or equivalent shall be approved by the local fire department and the department.

(8) The building shall have suitable fire lanes for access as required by local fire authorities and DHS.

(b) Doors within the means of egress shall not be equipped with a latch or lock which requires the use of a key or tool to open from the inside of the building. A latch or other fastening device on a door shall be provided with a knob, handle, panic bar, or other simple type of releasing device, the method of operation of which is obvious, even in darkness. An exception is that large facilities are permitted to have doors which are locked, provided that residents can be rapidly removed by the use of remote control of locks or by keying all locks to keys readily available to staff who are in constant attendance.

(c) A hold-open device must be installed on each exit door of large facilities.

(1) Each building shall have an approved fire alarm system.

(2) Components shall be compatible and laboratory listed for the use intended.

(3) Wiring and circuitry for alarm systems shall meet the applicable requirements of NFPA Codes, including NFPA 70 National Electric Code, for such systems.

(4) Fire alarm systems shall be installed, maintained, repaired, etc. by an agent having a current certificate of registration with the state fire marshal's office of the Texas Department on Fire Protection, in accordance with the state law. A fire alarm system installation certificate shall be provided as required by the Office of the State Fire Marshal. An exception is that large facilities who have professional engineers on staff that are qualified in electrical and electronic installations are not required to have a certificate of registration with the state fire marshal's office, provided they do not sell, install, or maintain fire alarm systems commercially.

(5) Smoke detector sensitivity must be checked within one year after installation and every alternate year thereafter in accordance with NFPA 72. Documentation, including as-built installation drawings, operation and maintenance manuals, and a written sequence of operation must be available for examination by the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS).

(b) Fire alarm and smoke detection and sprinkler systems for small facilities.

(1) A manual alarm initiating system shall be provided and shall be supplemented by an automatic smoke detection and alarm initiation system in accordance with NFPA 101, Chapter 9, titled "Building Service and Fire Protection Equipment," Section 9-6, titled "Fire Detection, Alarm, and Communications Systems."

(2) Smoke detectors shall be installed in resident bedrooms, corridors, hallways, and common living/dining areas. Service areas such as laundries and kitchens shall have heat detectors in lieu of smoke detectors.

(3) The fire alarm control panel shall be located to be in view of staff. The primary power source for the complete fire alarm system must be commercial electric.

(4) Emergency power source shall be from storage batteries or on-site engine-driven generator set.

(5) The operation of any alarm initiating device will sound an audible/visual alarm(s) at the site.

(6) The facility shall have a written contract with a fire alarm company or person licensed by the State Fire Marshal's Office to maintain the fire alarm system semiannually, and the system will be inspected as specified in the contract.

(7) Facilities classified as "impractical evacuation capability," must be protected by a sprinkler system in compliance with NFPA 13, NFPA 13R, or NFPA 13D with additional requirements for coverage in all dwelling areas and all closets as specified by NFPA 101, Chapters 32 and 33.

(c) Fire alarm and emergency systems for large facilities.

(1) The fire alarm system shall be designed so that whenever the general alarm is sounded by activation of any device (manual pull, smoke sensor, sprinkler, kitchen range hood extinguisher, etc.) the following shall occur automatically.

(A) Smoke and fire doors which are held open by approved devices shall be released to close.

(B) Air handlers (air conditioning/heating distribution fans) serving three or more rooms or any means of egress shall shut down immediately.

(C) Smoke dampers shall close.

(D) The proper zone indicating lights shall show on the fire alarm control panel(s), including auxiliary panels.

(2) Fire alarm bells or horns shall be located throughout the building for audible coverage. Flashing alarm lights (visual alarms) of proper intensity shall be installed to be visible in corridors and public areas including dining rooms and living rooms.

(3) A master control panel shall be visible at the main staff station which has alarm and trouble conditions by zones, power-on lights, and required signal devices for trouble conditions. All control panels must be listed in accordance with the provisions of the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. (UL) for the intended use, i.e., manual, automatic, and water flow activation. Alarm and trouble zoning shall be by smoke compartments and by floors in multi-story facilities.

(4) Remote annunciator panels equipped with alarm by zone and a common trouble signal (both audible and visual) shall be located at auxiliary or secondary staff stations on each floor or major subdivisions of single story facilities, that will indicate the alarm condition of adjacent zones and the alarm conditions at all other staff stations.

(5) Manual pull stations shall be provided at all exits, living rooms, dining rooms, and at or near the staff stations.

(6) The NFPA 13 sprinkler system shall be interconnected with the fire alarm panel as a separate zone for alarm and trouble. Activation of the tamper switch will provide a trouble condition on the fire alarm panel which will not impair the operation of the alarm.

(7) The kitchen range hood extinguisher shall be interconnected with the fire alarm system. This interconnection may be a separate zone on the panel or combined with other initiating devices located in the same zone as the range hood is located.

(8) The fire alarm system shall be arranged to transmit an alarm automatically to the fire department legally committed to serve the area in which the facility is located by the most direct and reliable method allowed by NFPA 101.

(9) Partial sprinkler systems (those provided only for hazardous areas) shall be interconnected to the fire alarm system and comply with NFPA 101. Each partial system shall have a valve with a supervisory switch to sound a supervisory signal, water flow switch to activate the fire alarm, and an end of line test drain.

(10) Emergency electrical services shall be provided to comply with the provisions of NFPA 70. This includes such items as emergency power provided by generator or batteries for fire alarm systems, emergency egress lighting, call systems, TV cameras and monitors (if used for corridor observation), life support systems, designated wall receptacles, etc. The system shall comply with NFPA 99 Standard for Health Care Facilities, and NFPA 37 Standard for the Installation and Use of Stationary Combustion Engines and Gas Turbines.

(11) Elevators, escalators, and moving walks. Elevators shall comply with the provisions of NFPA 101 and American National Standards Institute (ANSI) Safety Code for Elevators, Dumbwaiters, Escalators, and Moving Walks (ANSI A17.1). Elevators are required for buildings having resident facilities (such as bedrooms, dining, or recreation areas) or services (such as diagnostic or therapy) located on other than the main entrance floor. Passenger elevators, escalators, and walks shall be inspected by a qualified agent at least every six months. Freight elevators and dumbwaiters shall be inspected every 12 months.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.65 adopted to be effective July 1, 1996, 21 TexReg 5328; amended to be effective May 1, 1998, 23 TexReg 4060; amended to be effective May 1, 2000, 25 TexReg 3557; amended to be effective May 1, 2004, 29 TexReg 3237; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.66. Portable Fire Extinguishers

(a) General. Portable fire extinguishers must be provided and maintained to comply with the provisions of the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 10 Standard for Portable Fire Extinguishers. This includes such items as type of extinguishers (A, B, or C), location and spacing, mounting heights, monthly inspections by staff, yearly inspections by a licensed agent (with any necessary servicing), and hydrostatic testing as recommended by manufacturer.

(b) Types of extinguishers.

(1) Extinguishers in resident corridors must be spaced so that travel distance is not more than 75 feet. The minimum size of extinguishers must be either 2 1/2 gallon (pressurized water) for water type or 2-A: 10-B: C (five pound dry chemical) for ABC type.

(2) Extinguishers must be installed on supplied hangers or brackets or be mounted in cabinets approved by the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS).

(3) Extinguishers must be surface wall-mounted or recessed in cabinets where they are not subject to physical damage or dislodgement.

(4) Extinguishers having a gross weight not exceeding 40 pounds must be installed so that the top of the extinguisher is not more than five feet above the floor. Extinguishers with a gross weight greater than 40 pounds must be installed so the top of the extinguisher is not more than 3 1/2 feet above the floor. The clearance between the bottom of the extinguisher and the floor must not be less than four inches.

(5) Portable extinguishers provided in hazardous rooms must be located as close as possible to the exit door opening and on the latch (knob) side.

(6) Staff must be appropriately trained in the use of each type of extinguisher in the facility.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.66 adopted to be effective July 1, 1996, 21 TexReg 5328; amended to be effective May 1, 1998, 23 TexReg 4060; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.67. Accessibility Provisions

The physical plant shall be designed for persons with physical disabilities and/or mobility impairments and must comply with applicable federal, state, and local requirements.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.67 adopted to be effective July 1, 1996, 21 TexReg 5328; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.68. Architectural Space Planning

(a) Large facilities.

(1) Ancillary resident space. The minimum total ancillary resident-use space shall be not less than 35 square feet per bed. Ancillary space includes areas for living, dining, recreation, therapy, training, and other such program areas. It does not include bedrooms, passageways, offices, kitchens, laundries, etc. (more than 35 square feet per bed is usually needed in facilities with less than 60 beds). Facilities which have large proportions (approximately 65% or greater) of nonambulatory and/or bedfast residents shall provide at least 50 square feet of ancillary space per bed unless otherwise approved by DHS. Areas providing less space than called for in this paragraph cannot be approved except on an individual basis where clearly justified.

(2) Resident bedrooms.

(A) Bedrooms shall be arranged and equipped for adequate personal care and for comfort and privacy. Bedrooms shall have full height walls that extend from floor to ceiling with doors. (Partial partitions or furnishings are not a substitute.) An exception is that existing facilities constructed prior to October 3, 1988, that have partial partitions in lieu of full-height walls, need not install the full-height walls unless there are major renovations or conversions.

(B) Bedrooms shall provide at least 80 square feet for a single occupancy (one bed) and 60 square feet per bed for multiple occupancy. (Note: room configuration and usability is taken into consideration and there may be instances where the minimum square footage will not be acceptable.) The minimum room dimension shall be at least eight feet for a single room and at least ten feet for a multiple-bed room, unless otherwise approved by the department. An exception is that multi-occupancy bedrooms for persons in wheelchairs shall have 70 square feet per wheelchair occupant bed.

(C) No more than four beds shall be in any one bedroom. An exception is that the department may grant a variance from the limit of four residents per room only if a physician who is a member of the interdisciplinary team and who is a qualified mental retardation professional: (i) certifies that each resident to be placed in a bedroom housing more than four residents is so severely medically impaired as to require direct and continuous monitoring during sleeping hours; and (ii) documents the reasons why housing in a room of only four or fewer residents would not be medically feasible.

(D) In the bedrooms and for each resident there shall be a bed with a comfortable mattress and appropriate bedding, functional furniture appropriate to residents' needs, and closet space providing security and privacy for clothing and personal belongings. Closet space shall provide at least 24 inches of lineal hanging space per bed (in certain cases, such as for infants, exceptions may be made). Married couples may share a bed.

(E) Each bedroom shall have at least one outside wall with an operable window giving outside exposure. Unless approved otherwise by the department, the window sill of the required window shall be no higher than 44 inches from the floor and shall be at or above outside grade level. Other window requirements shall be as called for in the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 101. The window area for bedrooms shall be equal to at least 10% of the total room floor area.

(F) If a bedroom is below grade level, it must have a window that is usable as a second means of escape by the resident(s) occupying the room. The window shall be no more than 44 inches (measured to the window sill) above the floor.

(G) All resident bedrooms shall open onto an exit corridor, living area, or public area and shall be arranged for convenient resident access to dining, living, and bathing areas.

(3) Social-diversional spaces.

(A) Living rooms, day rooms, lounges, etc., must be provided on a sliding scale as follows (as part of the minimum required ancillary space):

Number of Beds	Area Per Bed (Minimum)
1-15	18 square feet (Minimum 144 square feet)
16-20>	17 square feet
21-25	16 square feet
26-30	15 square feet

31-35	14 square feet
36-40	13 square feet
41-50	12 square feet
51-60	11 square feet
61 and over	10 square feet (Ex: 100 beds = 1,000 square feet)

(B) Where a required way of exit is through a living area, a pathway equal to the corridor width will normally be deducted from that area. Such exit pathways must be kept clear of obstructions.

(C) Each living room and dining room shall have at least one outside window. Normally, resident classrooms and training areas should also have an outside window unless otherwise approved by the department.

(4) Dining space. Dining space shall provide at least 15 square feet per resident bed for single-shift feeding. If procedure is approved for feeding in two shifts, at least eight square feet per resident bed shall be provided.

(5) Training spaces (academic, behavioral, occupational, physical, and speech therapy, etc.). Classroom type space is anticipated for most training activities. The number and size of such spaces will be evaluated on an individual facility basis and according to program policies and procedures. Generally, training rooms should provide at least 20 square feet per resident trainee within the room except that no training room should be less than 80 square feet. For purposes of calculation, space should be provided for at least one-third of the total population at any one time (i.e., plan space for 33 residents in a 100-bed facility).

(6) Kitchens (main/dietary).

(A) Kitchens shall be evaluated on the basis of their performance in the sanitary and efficient preparation and serving of meals to residents. Consideration shall be given to planning for the type of meals served, the overall building design, the food service equipment, arrangement, and the work flow involved in the preparation and delivery of food. Plans for construction of new facilities shall contain a detailed kitchen layout prepared by, or under the direction of, a registered or licensed dietitian.

(B) Kitchens shall be designed so that room temperature, at peak load, shall not exceed an average temperature of 85 degrees Fahrenheit measured over the room at the five-foot level. The amount of supply air should take into account the large quantities of air exhausted at the range hood and dishwashing area.

(C) Kitchens shall be provided with operational equipment as planned and scheduled by the facility's consultants for preparing and serving meals and for refrigerating and freezing of perishable foods, as well as equipment in, and/or adjacent to, the kitchen or dining area for producing ice.

(D) Kitchens shall be provided with facilities for washing and sanitizing dishes and cooking utensils. Such facilities will be provided for the number of meals served and the method of serving (permanent or disposable dishes, etc.). The kitchen shall contain a compartmented sink large enough to immerse pots and pans. Separation of soiled and clean dish areas shall be maintained, including air flow. (i) A mechanical dishwasher must be used to sanitize dishes and utensils and must meet requirements specified under 25 TAC § 229.165 (relating to Equipment, Utensils, and Linens); or (ii) Dishes and utensils will be manually sanitized in accordance with 25 TAC § 229.165 prior to placement in the dishwasher.

(E) Kitchens shall be provided with a supply of hot and cold water. Hot water for sanitizing purposes shall be 180 degrees Fahrenheit or the manufacturer's suggested temperature for chemical sanitizers, as specified for the system in use. For mechanical dishwashers the temperature measurement is at the manifold.

(F) Kitchens shall be provided with at least one hand-washing lavatory or hand-sanitizing device. Hand-washing lavatories shall be provided with hot and cold running water, soap, and individual towels, preferably paper towels; common use towels shall not be used.

(G) In new construction, staff restroom facilities with a lavatory shall be accessible to kitchen staff without traversing resident use areas. The restroom door shall not open directly into the kitchen, e.g., provide a vestibule.

(H) In new construction, janitorial facilities shall be provided exclusively for the kitchen and shall be located in and entered from the kitchen.

(I) Nonabsorbent smooth finishes or surfaces shall be used on kitchen floors, walls, and ceilings. Such surfaces shall be capable of being sanitized to maintain a healthful environment.

(J) All operable window openings shall be screened. Doors opening to the outside of the building shall have self-closing devices.

(7) Food storage areas (main/kitchen).

(A) In new construction, food storage areas shall be planned on the basis of the number and type of resident meals to be served. The size and layout of dry foods storage shall be prepared by or designed under the direction of a licensed or registered dietitian.

(B) Food storage areas shall provide for storage of a four-day minimum supply of nonperishable foods at all times.

(C) Shelves shall be movable metal or sealed lumber, and walls must be finished with a nonabsorbent finish to provide a cleanable surface.

(D) Dry food storage shall have an approved venting system to provide for positive air circulation.

(E) The maximum room temperature for food storage shall not exceed 85 degrees Fahrenheit at all times. The measurement shall be taken at the five-foot level.

(F) Food storage areas may be located apart from the food preparation area as long as there is space adjacent to the kitchen for necessary daily stores.

(8) Food services areas.

(A) Where service areas other than the kitchen are used to dispense foods, these shall be designated as food service areas and shall have equipment for maintaining required food temperatures while serving.

(B) Separate food service areas shall have hand-washing facilities as a part of the food service area. An employee toilet shall be provided.

(C) Finishes of all surfaces except ceilings shall be the same as those required for dietary kitchens.

(9) Other spaces.

(A) Bathing units (tubs or showers) shall be provided at a minimum ratio of one per 15 beds. Waterclosets and lavatories shall be provided at a minimum ratio of one per eight beds. Bathing and toilet facilities should be of a type appropriate to the resident's varying needs and disabilities, and designed for privacy within the bathroom.

(B) Adequate storage space must be provided for equipment, carts, wheelchairs, etc., so as to eliminate the problem of such items being left or stored in corridors, or overcrowding bedroom space.

(1) Bedrooms.

(A) Bedrooms shall be arranged and equipped for adequate personal care and for comfort and privacy. Bedrooms shall have full height walls that extend from floor to ceiling with doors. (Partial partitions or furnishings are not a substitute.)

(B) Bedrooms shall provide at least 80 square feet for a single occupancy (one bed) and 60 square feet per bed for multiple occupancy. (Note: room configuration and usability is taken into consideration and there may be instances where the minimum square footage will not be acceptable.) The minimum room dimension shall be at least eight feet for a single room and at least ten feet for a multiple-bed room, unless otherwise approved by the department. An exception is that multi-occupancy bedrooms for persons in wheelchairs shall have 70 square feet per wheelchair occupant bed.

(C) No more than four beds shall be in any one bedroom. An exception is that the department may grant a variance from the limit of four residents per room only if a physician who is a member of the interdisciplinary team and who is a qualified mental retardation professional: (i) certifies that each resident to be placed in a bedroom housing more than four residents is so severely medically impaired as to require direct and continuous monitoring during sleeping hours; and (ii) documents the reasons why housing in a room of only four or fewer residents would not be medically feasible.

(D) In the bedrooms and for each resident there shall be a bed with a comfortable mattress and appropriate bedding, functional furniture appropriate to residents' needs, and closet space providing security for personal clothing and belongings. Closet space shall provide at least 24 inches of lineal hanging space per bed (in certain cases, such as for infants, exceptions may be made). Married couples may share a bed.

(E) Every bedroom shall have at least one outside window that can be readily opened from the inside and provides a clear opening of at least 5.7 square feet (minimum width of 20 inches; minimum height of 24 inches). The bottom of the opening shall be not more than 44 inches above the floor. Minimum dimensions for operable window section are 20 inches wide by 41.2 inches in height, or 24 inches in height by 34.2 inches wide to provide the minimum 5.7 feet of opening. If a bedroom has a second means of escape independent and remote from the primary means of escape, the bedroom shall have a window(s) with clear glass of area not less than 8% of the bedroom floor area. When opened, the window(s) must have an open space of not less than 4% of the bedroom floor area.

(F) Bedroom doors shall be 20-minute fire rated or 1 3/4-inch solid bonded core wood. These doors shall have automatic closures and latch in their frames. Exceptions are as follows. (i) Doors need only be smoke resistant and do not need automatic closure if the building has an approved sprinkler system throughout. (ii) Doors need only be smoke resistant with automatic closures if the facility is classified “prompt” level of evacuation difficulty.

(G) Each small facility shall have at least two remotely located means of escape that do not involve windows. The arrangement shall be such that there is a primary means of escape from each sleeping room that provides a path of travel to the outside without traversing any corridor or other space exposed to unprotected vertical openings or common living spaces, such as living rooms and kitchens. Exceptions are as follows: (i) A second means of escape or alternate protection is not required:

(I) if the bedroom has a door leading directly to the outside of the building, at or to grade level; or

(II) if the building is protected with an approved sprinkler system meeting National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 13 Standard for the Installation of Sprinkler Systems, NFPA 13R Standard for the Installation of Sprinkler Systems in Residential Occupancies up to and Including Four Stories in Height, or NFPA 13D Standard for the Installation of Sprinkler Systems in One- and Two-family Dwellings and Manufactured Homes. (ii) Separated primary means of escape is not necessary if the building is single story; has 1 3/4-inch solid bonded core doors to bedrooms or smoke resistant doors with closures; 20-minute fire protection for the structure; Class A or B interior finish; bedroom windows of proper size; total smoke detection coverage of habitable spaces, including loft areas that are tied into the manual fire alarm system; and two remote means of escape.

(2) Living room space. Living room space shall provide at least 15 square feet per resident (with a minimum of 120 square feet regardless of number of residents). Living space can include one or more rooms or areas provided that the first such area is at least 80 square feet each.

(3) Dining space. Dining space must be large enough to accommodate all residents at one sitting, and shall provide at least 15 square feet per resident. Living and dining space may be in one room or area providing a combined total of 30 square feet per resident (15 square feet living plus 15 square feet dining per resident).

(4) Bathrooms. Bathrooms shall provide for individual privacy. Water closets and lavatories shall be provided at a minimum ratio of one for each five residents. There shall be at least one tub or shower for each eight residents. At least one bathroom (with water closets, lavatory, and tub or shower) shall be provided on each sleeping floor accessible to the residents of that floor.

(5) Kitchen. The facility shall have a kitchen to meet the general food service needs of the residents. It shall include provisions for the storage, refrigeration, preparation, and serving of food; for dish and utensil cleaning; and for refuse storage and removal. A mechanical dishwasher shall be provided.

(6) Office. An office or other space shall be available for private individual counseling and for the safekeeping of files and records.

(7) Stairs. Buildings of two or more stories require at least two separate approved exit stairs from the upper floors. Usable space under the stairs is not allowed unless fire separated or protected in accordance with NFPA 101 Life Safety Code. Open interior stairways which constitute an “unprotected vertical opening” to a required exit passageway on the upper floor must be provided with a barrier (wall and door) at either the lower or upper level to prevent the rapid rise of fire or smoke originating on the lower level from rendering the upstairs passageway to the second stair impassable.

(8) Fire rating. Interior wall and ceiling surfaces shall have, as the finished surface or a substrate or sheathing, a fire resistance of not less than 20 minutes, similar to that provided by 3/8-inch gypsum board.

(b) The facility shall be well ventilated through the use of windows, mechanical ventilation, or a combination of both. Rooms and areas which do not have outside windows and which are used by residents or personnel shall be provided with functioning mechanical ventilation to change the air on a basis commensurate with the room usage.

(c) Air systems shall provide for the induction and mixing of at least 10% outside fresh air into the facility unless otherwise approved by DHS, that is, 100% continuous recirculation of interior air in most areas is not acceptable; or the system shall be designed to meet American Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE).

(d) Operable outside windows shall be provided with insect screens that prevent insect entry.

§ 551.75. Plans, Approvals, and Construction Procedures

At the option of the applicant, the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) will review plans for new buildings, additions, conversion of buildings not licensed by DHS, or remodeling of existing licensed facilities. DHS will, within 30 days, inform the applicant in writing of the results of the review. If the plans comply with DHS's architectural requirements, DHS may not subsequently change the architectural requirement applicable to the project unless the change is required by federal law or the applicant fails to complete the project within two years. DHS may grant a waiver of this two-year period for delays due to unusual circumstances. There is no time limit to complete a project, only a time limit for completing a project using requirements that have been revised after the project was reviewed.

(1) Submittal of plans.

(A) For review of plans, submit one copy of working drawings and specifications (contract documents) before construction begins. Documents must be in sufficient detail to interpret compliance with these standards and assure proper construction. Documents must be prepared according to accepted architectural practice and must include general construction, special conditions, and schedules.

(B) Final copies of plans must have (in the reproduction process by which plans are reproduced) a title block that shows name of facility, person, or organization preparing the sheet, sheet numbers, facility address, and drawing date. Sheets and sections covering structural, electrical, mechanical, and sanitary engineering final plans, designs, and specifications must bear the seal of a registered professional engineer approved by the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers to operate in Texas. Contract documents for additions, remodeling, and construction of an entirely new facility must be prepared by an architect licensed by the Texas State Board of Architectural Examiners. Drawings must bear the seal of the architect.

(C) A final plan for a major addition to a facility must include a basic layout to scale of the entire building onto which the addition will connect. North direction must be shown. The entire basic layout usually can be to scale such as 1/16 inch per foot or 1/32 inch per foot for very large buildings.

(D) Plans and specifications for conversions or remodeling must be complete for all parts and features involved.

(E) The sponsor is responsible for employing qualified personnel to prepare the contract documents for construction. If the contract documents have errors or omissions to the extent that conformance with standards cannot be reasonably assured or determined, a revised set of documents for review may be requested.

(F) The review of plans and specifications by DHS is based on general utility, the minimum licensing standards, and conformance of the Life Safety Code, and is not to be construed as all-inclusive approval of the structural, electrical, or mechanical components, nor does it include a review of building plans for compliance with the Texas Accessibility Standards as administered and enforced by the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation.

(G) Fees for plan review will be required in accordance with § 90.20 of this title (relating to Plan Review Fees).

(2) Contract documents.

(A) Site plan documents must include: (i) grade contours; (ii) streets (with names); (iii) north arrow; (iv) fire hydrants; (v) fire lanes; (vi) utilities, public or private; (vii) fences; and (viii) unusual site conditions, such as

(B) Foundation plan documents must include general foundation design and details.

(C) Floor plan documents must include: (i) room names, numbers, and usages; (ii) doors (numbered), including swing; (iii) windows; (iv) legend or clarification of wall types; (v) dimensions; (vi) fixed equipment; (vii) plumbing fixtures; (viii) kitchen basic layout; and (ix) identification of all smoke barrier walls (outside wall to outside wall) or fire walls.

(D) For both new construction and additions or remodeling to existing buildings, an overall plan of the entire building must be drawn or reduced to fit on an 8 1/2-inch by 11-inch sheet.

(E) Schedules must include: (i) door materials, widths, and types; (ii) window materials, sizes, and types; (iii) room finishes; and (iv) special hardware.

(F) Elevations and roof plan must include: (i) exterior elevations, including

(I) material note indications and

(II) any rooftop equipment; (ii) roof slopes, (iii) drains, (iv) gas piping, etc., and (v) interior elevations where needed for special conditions.

(G) Details must include: (i) wall sections as needed, especially for special conditions; (ii) cabinet and built-in work, basic design only; (iii) cross sections through buildings as needed; and (iv) miscellaneous details and enlargements as needed.

(H) Building structure documents must include: (i) structural framing layout and details (primarily for column, beam, joist, and structural building); (ii) roof framing layout (when it cannot be adequately shown on cross section); and (iii) cross sections in quantity and detail to show sufficient structural design and structural details as necessary to assure adequate structural design and calculated design loads.

(I) Electrical documents must include: (i) electrical layout, including lights, convenience outlets, equipment outlets, switches, and other electrical outlets and devices; (ii) service, circuiting, distribution, and panel diagrams; (iii) exit light system (exit signs and emergency egress lighting); (iv) emergency electrical provisions (such as generators and panels); (v) staff communication system; (vi) fire alarm and similar systems (such as control panel, devices, and alarms); and (vii) sizes and details sufficient to assure safe and properly operating systems.

(K) Heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning systems (HVAC) documents must include: (i) sufficient details of HVAC systems and components to assure a safe and properly operating installation, including, but not limited to, heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning layout, ducts, protection of duct inlets and outlets, combustion air, piping, exhausts, and duct smoke and/or fire dampers; (ii) and equipment types, sizes, and locations.

(L) Sprinkler system documents must include: (i) plans and details of National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) designed systems; (ii) plans and details of partial systems provided only for hazardous areas; and (iii) electrical devices interconnected to the alarm system.

(M) Specifications must include: (i) installation techniques; (ii) quality standards and/or manufacturers; (iii) references to specific codes and standards; (iv) design criteria; (v) special equipment; (vi) hardware; (vii) finishes; and (viii) any others as needed to amplify drawings and notes.

(N) Other layouts, plans, or details as may be necessary for a clear understanding of the design and scope of the project, including plans covering private water or sewer systems, must be reviewed by local health or wastewater authority having jurisdiction.

(3) Construction phase.

(A) DHS must be notified in writing before construction starts.

(B) All construction not done in accordance with the completed plans and specifications as submitted for review and as modified in accordance with review requirements will require additional drawings if the change is significant.

(4) Initial survey of completed construction.

(A) Upon completion of construction, including grounds and basic equipment and furnishings, a final construction inspection (initial survey) of the facility must be performed by DHS before admitting residents. An initial architectural inspection will be scheduled after DHS receives a notarized licensure application, required fee, fire marshal approval, and a letter from an architect or engineer stating that to the best of their knowledge the facility meets the architectural requirements for licensure.

(B) After the completed construction has been surveyed by DHS and found acceptable, this information will be forwarded to the DHS Facility Enrollment Section as part of the information needed to issue a license to the facility. In the case of additions or remodeling of existing facilities, a revision or modification to an existing license may be necessary. The building, including basic furnishings and operational needs, grades, drives, and parking, must essentially be 100% complete at the time of this initial visit for occupancy approval and licensing. A facility may accept up to three residents between the time it receives initial approval from DHS and the time the license is issued.

(C) The following documents must be available to DHS's architectural inspecting surveyor at the time of the survey of the completed building: (i) written approval of local authorities as required in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph; (ii) written certification of the fire alarm system by the installing agency (the Texas State Fire Marshal's Fire Alarm Installation Certificate); (iii) documentation of materials used in the building that are required to have a specific limited fire or flame spread rating, including special wall finishes or floor coverings, flame retardant curtains (including cubicle curtains), rated ceilings, etc., and, in the case of carpeting, a signed letter from the installer verifying that the carpeting installed is named in the laboratory test document; (iv) approval of the completed sprinkler system installation by the Texas Department of Insurance or designing engineer. A copy of the material list and test certification must be available; (v) service contracts for maintenance and testing of alarm systems, sprinkler systems, etc.; (vi) a copy of gas test results of the facility's gas lines from the meter; (vii) a written statement from an architect/engineer stating, to the best of his knowledge, the building was constructed in substantial compliance with the construction documents, the Life Safety Code, DHS licensure standards, and local codes; and (viii) any other such documentation as needed.

(5) Nonapproval of new construction.

(A) If, during the initial on-site survey of completed construction, the surveyor finds certain basic requirements not met, DHS may recommend the facility not be licensed and approved for occupancy. Such items may include the following: (i) substantial changes made during construction that were not submitted to DHS for review and that may require revised "as-built" drawings to cover the changes. This may include architectural, structural, mechanical, and electrical items as specified in paragraph (3) (B) of this section; (ii) construction that does not meet minimum code or licensure standards, such as corridors that are less than required width, ceilings installed at less than the minimum seven-foot six-inch height, resident bedroom dimensions less than required, and other such features that would disrupt or otherwise adversely affect the residents and staff if corrected after occupancy; (iii) no written approval by local authorities; (iv) fire protection systems, including, but not limited to, fire alarm systems, emergency power and lighting, and sprinkler systems, not completely installed or not functioning properly; (v) required exits not all usable according to National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 101 requirements;

(vi) telephone not installed or not properly working;
 (vii) sufficient basic furnishings, essential appliances, and equipment not installed or not functioning; and
 (viii) any other basic operational or safety feature that would preclude safe and normal occupancy by residents on that day.

(B) If the surveyor encounters only minor deficiencies, licensure may be recommended based on an approved written plan of correction from the facility's administrator.

(C) Copies of reduced-size floor plans on an 8 1/2-inch by 11-inch sheet must be submitted in duplicate to DHS for record/file use and for the facility's use for evacuation plan, fire alarm zone identification, etc. The plan must contain basic legible information such as scale, room usage names, actual bedroom numbers, doors, windows, and any other pertinent information.

Subchapter F.

INSPECTIONS, SURVEYS, AND VISITS

§ 551.191. Procedural Requirements

(a) HHSC inspection and survey personnel must perform inspections, surveys, follow-up visits, complaint investigations, investigations of abuse or neglect, and other contact visits from time to time as HHSC deems appropriate or as required for carrying out the responsibilities of licensing.

(b) A qualified surveyor or a team, of which one member is a specialized staff person who has expertise in developmental disabilities, conducts an inspection.

(c) To determine standard compliance that cannot be determined during regular working hours, HHSC may conduct night or weekend inspections to cover specific segments of operation. HHSC completes the inspections with the least possible interference to staff and residents.

(d) Generally, HHSC does not announce an inspection, survey, complaint investigation, or other visit, whether routine or non-routine, made for the purpose of determining the appropriateness of resident care and day-to-day operations of a facility.

(e) HHSC may announce a visit, including:

- (1) a consultation visit to determine how a physical plant may be expanded or upgraded;
- (2) a visit to determine the progress of physical plant construction or repairs, equipment installation or repairs, or systems installation or repairs; or
- (3) a visit resulting from an emergency, including a fire, a windstorm, or malfunctioning or nonfunctioning electrical or mechanical systems.

(f) Persons authorized to receive advance information on unannounced inspections include:

- (1) citizen advocates invited to attend inspections, as described in subsection (g) of this section;
- (2) representatives of the United States Department of Health and Human Services whose programs relate to the Medicare/Medicaid Long Term Care Program; and
- (3) representatives of HHSC whose programs relate to the Medicare/Medicaid long term care program.

(g) HHSC conducts at least two unannounced inspections of a facility during a two-year licensing period and at least three unannounced inspections of a facility during a three-year licensing period except as provided in this subsection.

(1) HHSC conducts a sufficient number of inspections between the hours of 5:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m. In randomly selected facilities, HHSC conducts a cursory after-hours inspection to determine staffing, emergency egress, resident care, medication security, food service or nourishments, sanitation, and other items determined necessary by HHSC. HHSC attempts to make any disruption of residents as minimal as feasible.

(2) For at least two unannounced inspections each licensing period, HHSC may invite to the inspections at least one person as a citizen advocate who has an interest in or who is employed by or affiliated with an organization or agency that represents or advocates for persons with intellectual disability or a related condition. HHSC provides to these organizations basic licensing information and requirements for the organizations' dissemination to their members whom they engage to attend the inspections. Advocates participating in the inspections must follow all HHSC protocols. Advocates must provide their own transportation. The schedule of inspections in this category will be arranged confidentially in advance with the organizations. Participation by the advocates is not a condition precedent to conducting the inspection.

(h) A facility must make all books, records, and other documents that are maintained by or on behalf of the facility accessible to HHSC on request.

(1) HHSC may photocopy documents, photograph residents, and use any other available recording devices to preserve relevant evidence of conditions found during an inspection, survey, or investigation.

(2) An example of records that HHSC may request and photocopy or otherwise reproduce is resident medical records, including nursing notes, pharmacy records, medication records, and physician's orders.

(3) When HHSC requests a facility furnish copies of documents, the facility may charge HHSC at a rate not to exceed the rate charged by HHSC for copies. The administrator or his designee must ensure the documents are copied. If the documents must be removed from the facility to be copied, a representative of the facility must accompany the documents and assure their order and preservation.

(4) HHSC protects the copies for privacy and confidentiality in accordance with recognized standards of medical records practice, applicable state laws, and HHSC policy.

(5) A facility must not falsify information contained in client records.

(i) HHSC may provide a special team to conduct validation surveys or to verify findings of previous licensure surveys.

(1) At HHSC's discretion, based on record review, random sample, or any other determination, HHSC may assign a team to conduct a validation survey. HHSC may use the information to verify previous determinations or identify training needs to ensure consistency in deficiencies cited and in punitive actions recommended throughout the state.

(2) A facility must correct any additional deficiencies cited by a validation team but is not subject to any new or additional punitive action as a result of those deficiencies.

(j) During an investigation, survey, or inspection, HHSC may conduct an interview with a resident of a facility or staff employed by the facility in private. A facility must not retaliate against the resident or staff.

(k) Facility staff must be available at the facility within 45 minutes of telephone contact by survey staff.

§ 551.192. Determinations and Actions Pursuant to Inspections, Surveys, or Investigations

(a) DADS will determine if a facility meets licensure requirements through inspections, surveys, and investigations.

(b) During an investigation resulting from a complaint, DADS does not disclose the source of the complaint.

(c) At the conclusion of an inspection, survey, or investigation, a representative of DADS holds an exit conference with a representative of the facility and provides the facility representative a written list of violations.

(d) If DADS cites an additional violation during a review of field notes or preparation of the official final list of violations, DADS:

(1) communicates the additional violation to the facility in writing within ten working days after the exit conference; and

(2) gives the facility an additional face-to-face exit conference regarding the additional violations.

(e) DADS provides the facility with a clear and concise summary in nontechnical language of each licensure inspection or complaint investigation.

(f) The facility must submit a plan to correct cited violations to the regional director of the area in which the facility is located no later than 10 working days after the date the facility receives the final, official statement of violations. To be accepted by DADS, a plan to correct violations must state when the corrective action will be completed and must address:

(1) how the facility will accomplish corrective action for residents directly affected by the cited violation;

(2) how the facility will identify other residents who may be affected by the cited violation; and

(3) how the facility will avoid having the violation recur.

(g) If a facility fails to submit a plan to correct violations that meets the requirements of subsection (f) of this section, DADS may assess an administrative penalty against the facility in accordance with § 90.236(a)(7) of this chapter (relating to Administrative Penalties).

§ 551.217. Reporting of Resident Death Information

(a) All licensed facilities must submit to the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) a report of deaths of any persons residing in the facility and those persons transferred from the facilities to a hospital who expire within 24 hours after transfer.

(b) The facility must submit to DHS a standard DHS form within ten workdays after the last day of the month in which a resident death occurs. The form must include:

- (1) name of deceased;
- (2) social security number of the deceased;
- (3) date of death; and
- (4) name and address of the institution.

(c) These reports are confidential under the Health and Safety Code, § 252.134; however, licensed facilities must make available historical statistics provided to them by DHS, if requested by the applicants for admission or their representative.

(d) DHS produces statistical information of official causes of death to determine patterns and trends of incidents of death and makes this information available to the public upon request.

Subchapter H.

ENFORCEMENT

§ 551.231. Warning Letter

When Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) personnel determine that a facility is out of compliance with licensure rules to a degree that places the facility at risk of the imposition of licensing actions, DHS may send a warning letter to the facility. The warning letter notifies the facility that the violations of licensing rules must be corrected.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.231 adopted to be effective July 1, 1996, 21 TexReg 5328; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.232. License Suspension

(a) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) may suspend a facility's license when the facility's violation of the licensure rules threatens to jeopardize the health and safety of residents.

(b) Suspension of a license may occur simultaneously with any other enforcement provision available to DHS.

(c) The facility will be notified by certified mail of DHS's intent to suspend the license, including the facts or conduct alleged to warrant the suspension. The facility has an opportunity to show compliance with all requirements of law for the retention of the license as provided in § 90.18 of this title (relating to Informal Reconsideration). If the facility requests an informal reconsideration, DHS will give the license holder a written affirmation or reversal of the proposed action.

(d) The facility will be notified by certified mail of DHS's suspension of the facility's license. The facility has 15 days from receipt of the certified mail notice to request a hearing in accordance with §§ 79.1601-79.1614 of this title (relating to Formal Hearings). The suspension will take effect when the deadline for appeal of the suspension passes, unless the facility appeals the suspension. If the facility appeals the suspension, the status of the license holder is preserved until final disposition of the contested matter.

(e) The suspension will remain in effect until DHS determines that the reason for suspension no longer exists. DHS will conduct an on-site investigation prior to making a determination. During the suspension, the license holder must return the license to DHS.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.232 adopted to be effective May 1, 1995, 20 TexReg 1659; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.233. Revocation

(a) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) may revoke a facility's license when:

(1) the facility's violation of the licensure rules jeopardizes the health and safety of residents; or

(2) the facility has violated the requirements of the Health and Safety Code, Chapter 252, or the rules adopted under that chapter, in either a repeated or substantial manner.

(b) In addition, DHS may revoke a license if the license holder:

(1) submitted false or misleading statements in the application for a license or any accompanying attachments;

(2) used subterfuge or other evasive means to obtain the license;

(3) concealed a material fact in the application for a license or failed to disclose information required in § 90.13 of this title (relating to Applicant Disclosure Requirements) that would have been the basis to deny the license under § 90.17 of this title (relating to Criteria for Denying a License or Renewal); or

(4) received monetary or other remuneration from a person or agency that furnishes services or materials to the facility or individuals for a fee.

(c) Revocation of a license may occur simultaneously with any other enforcement provision available to DHS.

(d) The facility will be notified by certified mail of DHS's intent to revoke the license, including the facts or conduct alleged to warrant the revocation. The facility has an opportunity to show compliance with all requirements of law for the retention of the license as provided in § 90.18 of this title (relating to Informal Reconsideration). If the facility requests an informal reconsideration, DHS will give the license holder a written affirmation or reversal of the proposed action.

(e) The facility will be notified by certified mail of DHS's intent to revoke the license, including the facts or conduct alleged to warrant the revocation. The facility has 15 days from receipt of the certified mail notice to request a hearing in accordance §§ 79.1601-79.1614 of this title (relating to Formal Hearings). The revocation will take effect when the deadline for appeal of the revocation passes, unless the facility appeals the revocation. If the facility appeals the revocation, the status of the license holder is preserved until final disposition of the contested matter. Upon revocation, the license must be returned to DHS.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.233 adopted to be effective August 31, 1993, 18 TexReg 2557; transferred effective September 1, 1993, as published in the Texas Register September 3, 1993, 18 TexReg 5885; amended to be effective September 1, 1994, 19 TexReg 5731; amended to be effective May 1, 1995, 20 TexReg 1659; amended to be effective February 1, 1999, 23 TexReg 11829; amended to be effective May 1, 2000, 25 TexReg 3557; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.234. Emergency License Suspension and Closing Order

(a) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) may suspend a facility's license or order an immediate closing of part of the facility if:

(1) DHS finds that the facility is operating in violation of the licensure rules; and

(2) the violation creates an immediate threat to the health and safety of a resident.

(b) The order suspending a license or closing a part of a facility under this section is immediately effective on the date the license holder receives written notice or a later date specified in the order. Written notice includes notice by facsimile transmission.

(c) The order suspending a license or ordering an immediate closing of a part of the facility is valid for ten days after the effective date of the order.

(d) When an emergency suspension has been ordered and the conditions in the facility indicate that residents should be relocated, the following rules apply:

(1) A resident's rights or freedom of choice in selecting treatment facilities will be respected.

(2) If a facility or part thereof is closed:

(A) DHS will notify the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation (TDMHMR), the local health department director, city or county health authority, and representatives of the appropriate state agencies of the closure;

(B) the facility staff must notify each resident's guardian or responsible party and attending physician, advising them of the action in process;

(C) the resident or the resident's guardian or responsible person will have an opportunity to designate a preference for a specific facility or for other arrangements;

(D) DHS must contact TDMHMR to arrange for relocation to other facilities in the area in accordance with the resident's preference. A facility chosen for relocation must be in good standing with DHS and, if certified under Titles XVIII and XIX of the Social Security Act, must be in good standing under its contract. The facility chosen must be able to meet the needs of the resident;

(E) if absolutely necessary, to prevent transport over substantial distances, DHS will grant a waiver to a receiving facility to temporarily exceed its licensed capacity, provided the health and safety of residents is not compromised and the facility can meet the increased demands for direct care personnel and dietary services. A facility may exceed its licensed capacity under these circumstances, monitored by DHS staff, until residents can be transferred to a permanent location;

(F) with each resident transferred, the following reports, records, and supplies must be transmitted to the receiving institution: (i) a copy of the current physician's orders for medication, treatment, diet, and special services required; (ii) personal information, such as name and address of next of kin, guardian, or party responsible for the resident; attending physician; Medicare and Medicaid identification number; social security number; and other identification information as deemed necessary and available; (iii) all medication dispensed in the name of the resident for which physician's orders are current. The medication must be inventoried and transferred with the resident. Medications past an expiration date or discontinued by physician order must be inventoried for disposition in accordance with state law; (iv) the residents' personal belongings, clothing, and toilet articles. An inventory of personal property and valuables must be made by the closing facility; and (v) resident trust fund accounts maintained by the closing facility. All items must be properly inventoried and receipts obtained for audit purposes by the appropriate state agency;

(G) if the closed facility is allowed to reopen within 90 days, the relocated residents will have the first right to return to the facility. Relocated residents may choose to return, may stay in the receiving facility (if the facility is not exceeding its licensed capacity), or choose any other accommodations; and

(H) any return to the facility must be treated as a new admission, including, but not limited to, exchange of medical information, medications, and completion of required forms.

(e) A licensee whose facility is closed under this section is entitled to request an administrative hearing in accordance with §§ 79.1601-79.1614 of this title (relating to Formal Hearings), but a hearing request does not suspend the effectiveness of the order.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.234 adopted to be effective May 1, 1995, 20 TexReg 1659; amended to be effective February 1, 1999, 23 TexReg 11829; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.235. Referral to the Attorney General

(a) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) may petition a district court for a temporary restraining order to restrain a person from continuing a violation of the standards prescribed by this chapter if DHS finds that the violation creates an immediate threat to the health and safety of the facility's residents.

(b) A district court, on petition by DHS, may by injunction:

- (1) prohibit a person from continuing a violation of the standards or licensing requirements prescribed by this chapter;
- (2) restrain or prevent the establishment, conduct, management, or operation of a facility without a license issued under this chapter; or
- (3) grant the injunctive relief warranted by the facts on a finding by the court that a person is violating the standards or licensing requirements prescribed by this chapter.

(c) DHS may refer a facility to the attorney general for the assessment of civil penalties under the Texas Health and Safety Code, § 252.064, for a violation that threatens the health and safety of a resident.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.235 adopted to be effective May 1, 1995, 20 TexReg 1659; amended to be effective February 1, 1999, 23 TexReg 11829; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.236. Administrative Penalties

(a) HHSC may assess an administrative penalty against a license holder if the license holder:

(1) violates Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 252, or any rule, standard, or order adopted or a license issued under such chapter and the violation creates a potential for more than minimal harm, results in actual harm, or poses an immediate threat to the health or safety of a resident;

(2) makes a false statement, that the person knows or should know is false, of a material fact:

(A) on an application for issuance or renewal of a license or in documentation submitted to HHSC in support of the application; or

(B) with respect to a matter under investigation by HHSC;

(3) refuses to allow a representative of HHSC to inspect:

(A) a book, record, or file required to be maintained by the person; or

(B) any portion of the premises of a facility;

(4) willfully interferes with the work of a representative of HHSC or the enforcement of Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 252;

(5) willfully interferes with a representative of HHSC preserving evidence of a violation of Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 252, or a rule, standard, or order adopted or license issued under such chapter;

(6) fails to pay a penalty assessed by HHSC under Texas Health and Safety Code, Chapter 252, not later than the 10th day after the date the assessment of the penalty becomes final;

(7) fails to submit a plan of correction to HHSC within 10 working days after receiving the final statement of licensing violations; or

(8) fails to notify HHSC of a change in ownership before the effective date of that change of ownership.

(b) In determining if a violation described in subsection (a)(1) of this section warrants an administrative penalty, HHSC considers:

(1) the seriousness of the violation, including the nature, circumstances, extent, and gravity of the violation;

(2) the hazard of the violation to the health and safety of a resident; and

(3) whether the affected license holder had identified the violation as part of its internal quality assurance process and had made appropriate progress on correction.

(c) HHSC does not assess an administrative penalty against a license holder because of a physician's or consultant's nonperformance beyond the license holder's control or if documentation clearly indicates the violation is beyond the license holder's control.

(d) An administrative penalty assessed in accordance with subsection (a)(1) of this section begins on the first date HHSC establishes that the violation that caused the penalty to be assessed exists.

(e) An administrative penalty assessed in accordance with subsection (a)(1) of this section ceases on the date the violation is corrected. A violation is corrected if the license holder:

- (1) notifies HHSC in writing that the violation has been corrected;
- (2) states the date of the correction in the notification; and
- (3) maintains evidence that the violation was corrected on the date in the notification.

(f) An administrative penalty assessed in accordance with subsection (a)(1) of this section is determined based on the scope and severity of the violation, in accordance with the figures in this section.

(g) An administrative penalty assessed in accordance with subsection (a)(2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7) or (8) of this section is in the following amount:

- (2) a statement of the amount of the proposed penalty; and
- (3) a statement of the license holder's right to request a hearing on the occurrence of the violation, the amount of the violation, the amount of the penalty, or both the occurrence of the violation and the amount of the penalty.

(i) A license holder that is notified in accordance with subsection (h) of this section may file a request for a hearing with HHSC. To receive a hearing, a license holder must request a hearing in accordance with 1 TAC § 357.484 (relating to Request for a Hearing) except, as provided by Texas Health and Safety Code, § 252.066, the license holder must make a written request for a hearing within 20 calendar days after the date on which the license holder receives written notice of the administrative penalty. A hearing requested under this section is governed by 1 TAC Chapter 357, Subchapter I (relating to Hearings Under the Administrative Procedure Act).

§ 551.237. Appointment of a Trustee by Agreement

(a) A person holding a controlling interest in a facility may, at any time, request the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) to assume the operation of the facility through the appointment of a trustee.

(b) If DHS believes that the appointment of a trustee is desirable, DHS may enter into an agreement with the person holding the controlling interest for the appointment of the trustee to take charge of the facility.

(c) Any agreement entered into under this section must:

- (1) specify all terms and conditions of the trustee's appointment and authority; and
- (2) preserve all rights of the residents as granted by law.

(d) The agreement will terminate either at a time specified in the agreement or upon receipt of notice of intent to terminate sent by either party.

(e) If DHS determines that termination of the agreement by the person holding a controlling interest in the facility would not be in the best interest of the residents, DHS will petition a court for an involuntary appointment under the terms of § 90.238 of this title (relating to Involuntary Appointment of a Trustee).

(f) The appointment of a trustee by agreement does not suspend the obligation of a facility to pay assessed civil money or administrative penalties.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.237 adopted to be effective February 1, 1999, 23 TexReg 11829; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.238. Involuntary Appointment of a Trustee

(a) The Texas Department of Human Services (DHS) may petition a court of competent jurisdiction for the involuntary appointment of a trustee to operate a facility if one or more of the following conditions exist:

- (1) the facility is operating without a license;
- (2) the facility's license has been suspended or revoked;
- (3) license suspension or revocation procedures against a facility are pending and an imminent threat to the health and safety of the residents exists;
- (4) an emergency exists that presents an immediate threat to the health and safety of the residents; and/or
- (5) the facility is closing (whether voluntarily or through an emergency closure order) and arrangements for relocation of the residents to other licensed institutions have not been made before closure.

(b) A trustee appointed under this section is entitled to a reasonable fee as determined by the court to be paid from the Nursing and Convalescent Home trust fund.

(c) The trustee may use the emergency assistance funds in the trust fund only to alleviate an immediate threat to the health and safety of the residents, through such disbursements as payments for food; medication; sanitation services; minor repairs; supplies necessary for personal hygiene; or services necessary for the personal care, health and safety of the residents.

(d) Before emergency assistance funds may be dispersed, a court order must be entered authorizing DHS to disburse emergency assistance funds to the facility.

(e) A facility that receives emergency assistance funds under this section must reimburse DHS for the amounts received not later than one year after the date on which the funds were received by the trustee. The owner of the facility at the time the trustee was appointed is responsible for the reimbursement and must pay interest from the date the funds were disbursed on the amount outstanding at a rate equal to the rate of interest determined under Texas Civil Statutes, Article 5069-1.05, to be applicable to judgments rendered during the month in which the money was disbursed to the facility. DHS will deposit the reimbursement and the interest received under this subsection to the credit of the Nursing and Convalescent Home Trust Fund.

(f) Any amount remaining due at the end of one year becomes delinquent and will be referred to the attorney general.

(g) The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation may determine that the facility is ineligible for a Medicaid provider contract.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.238 adopted to be effective February 1, 1999, 23 TexReg 11829; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.239. Notification of Closure

(a) In this section, the terms “close” and “closure” refer to a facility ceasing to operate. The terms do not include temporarily relocating residents of a facility.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c) of this section, if a license holder intends to voluntarily close a facility, the license holder must, at least 60 days before the facility closes:

(1) send written notice of the license holder’s intent to close the facility, including the anticipated date of closure, to:

- (A) DADS; and
- (B) a resident; and

(2) make reasonable efforts to send written notice of the license holder’s intent to close the facility, including the anticipated date of closure to:

- (A) a resident’s legally authorized representative; or
- (B) if the resident does not have a legally authorized representative, the resident’s nearest relative.

(c) If, for reasons beyond the license holder’s control, the license holder cannot provide the notice required by subsection (b) of this section at least 60 days before the license holder anticipates closing the facility, the license holder must state in the notice the reason why a shorter time period is necessary.

(d) If DADS requires a facility to close or the facility’s closure is in any other way involuntary, the license holder must, immediately after becoming aware that the facility is closing:

(1) send written notice of the closure, including the anticipated date of closure, to:

- (A) DADS, if DADS is not requiring the facility to close; and
- (B) a resident; and

(2) make reasonable efforts to send written notice of the closure, including the anticipated date of closure to:

- (A) a resident’s legally authorized representative;

or

- (B) if the resident does not have a legally authorized representative, the resident’s nearest relative.

(e) A license holder must submit the license of a closing facility to DADS with the notice required by subsection (b) (1)(A) or (d)(1)(A) of this section. If notice is not provided in accordance with subsection (b)(1)(A) or (d)(1)(A) of this section because DADS is requiring a facility to close, the license holder must submit the license to DADS when the closure is final.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.239 adopted to be effective April 17, 2016, 41 TexReg 2602; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.240. Right to Correct

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, before imposing an administrative penalty, HHSC gives a reasonable period of time, not less than 45 days, to correct a violation if a plan of correction is implemented. A facility may request a shorter period of time to correct the violation by submitting a written request for an early inspection to clear the violation. If, during the requested early inspection, HHSC finds that the correction is not satisfactory, an administrative penalty may immediately be assessed from the first day of violation.

(b) HHSC does not give a facility a period of time to correct a violation before assessing an administrative penalty if HHSC determines that the violation:

(1) is a pattern of violation that results in actual harm;

(2) is widespread in scope and results in actual harm;

(3) is widespread in scope, creates a potential for more than minimal harm, and relates to:

(A) staff treatment of a resident, as described in 42 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) § 483.410, § 90.42(e) (relating to Standards for Facilities Serving Individuals with an Intellectual Disability or Related Conditions), § 90.212 (relating to Reporting Abuse, Neglect, and Exploitation to DFPS), § 90.213 (relating to Reporting Incidents to DADS) and § 90.214 (relating to Protection of Residents After Report of Abuse, Neglect, and Exploitation) of this chapter;

(B) active treatment, as described in 42 CFR § 483.440;

(C) client behavior and facility practices, as described in 42 CFR § 483.450 and § 90.42(e) of this chapter;

(D) health care services, as described in 42 CFR § 483.460;

(E) drug administration, as described in 42 CFR § 483.460(k) and § 90.42(e) and § 90.43 (relating to Administration of Medication) of this chapter;

(F) infection control, as described in 42 CFR § 483.470(l);

(G) food and nutrition services, as described in 42 CFR § 483.480; or

(H) emergency preparedness and response, as described in 42 CFR § 483.475 and § 90.50 (relating to Emergency Preparedness and Response) of this chapter;

(4) constitutes an immediate threat to the health or safety of a resident;

(5) substantially limits the facility’s capacity to provide care; or

(6) is described in § 90.236(a)(2) - (8) of this subchapter (relating to Administrative Penalties).

(c) HHSC may not assess an administrative penalty for a minor violation that HHSC gave the facility time to correct if the facility corrects the violation not later than the 46th day after the facility receives notice of the violation.

(d) If the facility reports to HHSC that the violation has been corrected, HHSC inspects the facility or takes any other steps necessary to confirm that the violation has been corrected and notifies the facility that:

(1) the correction is satisfactory and a penalty is not assessed; or

(2) the correction is not satisfactory and a penalty is recommended.

(e) If the facility wishes to appeal the administrative penalty, the facility must file a notice to request a hearing on the violation or penalty no later than the 20th calendar day after the date on which the facility received the notice to pay an administrative penalty.

HISTORY: The provisions of this § 551.240 adopted to be effective May 1, 2000, 25 TexReg 3557; amended to be effective January 15, 2009, 34 TexReg 238; amended to be effective October 28, 2018, 43 TexReg 7191; transferred effective May 1, 2019, as published in the Texas Register April 12, 2019, 44 TexReg 1883

§ 551.241. Amelioration of Violation

(a) In lieu of demanding payment of an administrative penalty, the commissioner may allow the person to use, under the supervision of the Texas Department of Human Services (DHS), a portion of the penalty to ameliorate the violation or to improve services, other than administrative services, in the facility.

(b) DHS will offer amelioration to a person for a violation if DHS determines that the violation does not constitute immediate jeopardy to the health and safety of a resident. In this section, “immediate jeopardy to health and safety” means a situation in which immediate corrective action is necessary because the facility’s noncompliance with one or more requirements has caused, or is likely to cause, serious injury, harm, impairment, or death to a resident.

(c) DHS will not offer amelioration to a person if DHS determines that the violation constitutes immediate jeopardy to the health and safety of a resident.

(d) DHS will offer amelioration to a person not later than the 10th day after the date the person receives from DHS a final notification of assessment of administrative penalty that is sent to the person after an informal dispute resolution process but before an administrative hearing.

(e) A person to whom amelioration has been offered must file a plan for amelioration not later than the 45th day after the date the person receives the offer of amelioration from DHS. §9.154. Description of the HCS Program and CFC

(a) The HCS Program is a Medicaid waiver program approved by CMS pursuant to §1915(c) of the Social Security Act. It provides community-based services and supports to eligible individuals as an alternative to the ICF/IID Program. The HCS Program is operated by DADS under the authority of HHSC.

(b) Enrollment in the HCS Program is limited to the number of individuals in specified target groups and to the geographic areas approved by CMS.

(c) HCS Program services listed in this subsection are selected for inclusion in an individual's IPC to ensure the individual's health, safety, and welfare in the community, supplement rather than replace that individual's natural supports and other community services for which the individual may be eligible, and prevent the individual's admission to institutional services. The following HCS Program services are defined in Appendix C of the HCS Program waiver application approved by CMS and found at www.dads.state.tx.us. Services available under the HCS Program are:

- (1) TAS;
- (2) professional therapies provided by appropriately licensed or certified professionals as follows:
 - (A) physical therapy, including a pre-enrollment minor home modifications assessment;
 - (B) occupational therapy, including a pre-enrollment minor home modifications assessment;
 - (C) speech and language pathology;
 - (D) audiology;
 - (E) social work;
 - (F) behavioral support, including a pre-enrollment minor home modifications assessment;
 - (G) dietary services; and
 - (H) cognitive rehabilitation therapy;
- (3) nursing provided by an RN or LVN;
- (4) residential assistance, excluding room and board, provided in one of the following three ways:
 - (A) host home/companion care;
 - (B) supervised living; or
 - (C) residential support;
- (5) supported home living, which is not a reimbursable service for individuals receiving host home/companion care, supervised living, or residential support;
- (6) respite, which includes room and board when provided in a setting other than the individual's home, but is not a reimbursable service for individuals receiving host home/companion care, supervised living, or residential support;
- (7) day habilitation, provided exclusive of any other separately funded service, including public school services, rehabilitative services for persons with mental illness, other programs funded by DADS, or programs funded by DARS;
- (8) employment assistance;
- (9) supported employment;
- (10) adaptive aids;
- (11) minor home modifications, including pre-enrollment minor home modifications;
- (12) dental treatment; and
- (13) if the individual's IPC includes at least one HCS Program service to be delivered through the CDS option:
 - (A) FMS; and
 - (B) support consultation.

(d) A program provider may only provide and bill for supported home living if the activity provided is transportation as described in §9.174(a)(33)(C) of this subchapter (relating to Certification Principles: Service Delivery).

(e) CFC is a state plan option governed by Code of Federal Regulations, Title 42, Chapter 441, Subchapter K, regarding Home and Community-Based Attendant Services and Supports State Plan Option (Community First Choice) that provides the following services to individuals:

- (1) CFC PAS/HAB;
- (2) CFC ERS; and
- (3) CFC support management for an individual receiving CFC PAS/HAB.

(f) DADS has grouped Texas counties into geographical areas, referred to as "local service areas," each of which is served by a LIDDA. DADS has further grouped the local service areas into "waiver contract areas." a list of the counties included in each local service area and waiver contract area is found at www.dads.state.tx.us.

(1) A program provider may provide HCS Program services and CFC services only to persons residing in the counties specified for the program provider in DADS automated enrollment and billing system.

(2) A program provider must have a separate contract for each waiver contract area served by the program provider.

(3) A program provider may have a contract to serve one or more local service areas within a waiver contract area, but the program provider must serve all of the counties within each local service area covered by the contract.

(4) A program provider may not have more than one contract per waiver contract area.

(g) A program provider must comply with:

(1) all applicable state and federal laws, rules, and regulations, including Chapter 49 of this title (relating to Contracting for Community Services); and

(2) DADS Information Letters regarding the HCS Program found at www.dads.state.tx.us.

(h) The CDS option is a service delivery option, described in Chapter 41 of this title (relating to Consumer Directed Services Option), in which an individual or LAR employs and retains service providers and directs the delivery of a service through the CDS option, as described in §41.108 of this title (relating to Services Available Through the CDS Option).
