

Top priorities for the JCMH

Short-term Outcomes

Collaboration between judiciary, law enforcement, prosecutors, and treatment providers at the local level

Increased judicial education so judges are more aware of mental health systems and resources

Increased law enforcement training on crisis intervention, for police and jail deputies

More efficient use of resources

Expanded capacity for existing programs such as Dual Diagnosis Courts

Early identification, monitoring, and diverting individuals from criminal justice system

Long-term Outcomes

Increased early intervention for mental health and IDD

Increased capacity at state and local level for inpatient, outpatient, and ongoing MH services

Investment in diversion centers

Adequately funded community mental health authorities

Successful community integration and treatment

Dedicated mental health courts with civil and criminal jurisdiction

Increased availability of service array, including rural areas

Structure and Approach

-
- Bring in experts to advise on issues of interest
  - Distribute survey or conduct site visits of local programs to identify gaps and best practices
  - Hear examples and experiences from other judge
  - Create workgroups to investigate, evaluate, and make recommendations
  - Identify key unmet needs and coordinate efforts at the Legislature
  - Include individuals with lived experiences to help inform resolutions
  - Compile reports and convene roundtable meetings